WILLIAM H. WESTBROOK

Mr. Westbrook
I hope you get another me next year. One thing you don't deserve after putting up with me is a job. Get plenty of sun, for this summer, because I'll come back and harass you.
Next year '75
Ralph Galt

Mr. Westbrook
To all the great sets and all my tests to bad my junior slump hit at the beginning of this year. Other than that I will have memories of this class forever.
Paul K. Baker

Mr. Westbrook,
A handsome young man. Good luck to you through the years. Remember me, you sweet thing (smile)
Christy Love 7-D-5
(Crystal Reed)

Mr. Westbrook,
You're my love,
I loved that night when you made love to me,
Love,
"Wee"

William
To my Favorite teacher. I really enjoy being in your class this year. Although we did have a few fights. I'll be back to see you next year. Don't get to drunk over the summer.
Wayne Jackson

Mr. Westbrook
Four classes in two years is enough for anyone. I think I learned a lot, and the classes were interesting, but I'm happy to be going. Thanks for everything, and maybe I'll come back and haunt you sometime
Karen Miller

Hi!
Two classes back to back was enough for anyone but someone I enjoyed it. Had a great experience. I'll be back sometime.
Katie Leffer

Mr. Westbrook
Remember Data I had a lot of fun & how brighter it up & I learned a good time really & year!
see you next student
Data
Mr. Walker

That's all I know in Notehand!

Westbrook,
my favorite teacher! I've had a good time in typing, and in Notehand. Honestly,
I have never gotten so much out of any classes
as I have in your classes!
Good luck with your Colostrals! ☺ Remember me always and every time I look at that silly bird, I'll think of you! Love,
Kathy McAniffe

A dramatic photograph of a sunset or sunrise. The sky is filled with large, billowing clouds in shades of orange, yellow, and red. A tall, dark street lamp stands on the left side of the frame. In the foreground, the dark silhouette of a building is visible, with a small red light reflecting on its surface. The overall mood is intense and atmospheric.

Executive Council Deals In Anonymity

SFAC Executive Council — First Row: Joanne Lichty, Eric Christenson, Liz Gieske, Marion Sherman, Chairman Andy Tanzer, Nard

Reading intellectual periodicals like National Lampoon, Dave Paduda bones up vital SFAC materials.

SFAC Chairman Andy Tanzer scans the audience for reaction to the minutes.

Student government at Yorktown this year was genus SFAC, species Anonymous. So anonymous was SFAC that scarcely one in ten students knew the names of its leaders. For the record, they were Chairman Andy Tanzer and Vice-Chairman Alan Holt.

Scant press coverage and lack of issues are the main causes of SFAC's identity crisis. SENTRY articles about SFAC were rare. In addition, the Diversified School Structure and smoking court removed the major student gripes about "the system." A feeble attempt to make press censorship an issue petered out as the administration claimed that censorship charges against it were exaggerated. Pass-fail, if it passes the Academics Commission, could become an issue, but was not one at press time.

SFAC's most important accomplishment was the revival of the literary magazine. The project was financed with a $100 grant from the SFAC Floating Fund.

With more publicity and serious issues, SFAC could once again be the leadership organization its founders intended. Until then, it is doomed to be just another name mispronounced on morning announcements.

Grievance Commissions Handle Complaints

Having nailed the coffin shut on an exam policy change, the Academics Commission ponders the fate of the proposal for a pass-fail option.

Proof that Rules and Regulations is a joke, Pete Rintels and Alan Stocker laugh at a meeting.

Within the SFAC there are two kinds of commissions: those that plan activities and those that handle student complaints. This latter group includes the Academics, Rules and Regulations, and Rights and Responsibilities Commissions.

Of the three, only Academics was genuinely active. Chaired by Bruce Anderson, the commission debated the exam and pass-fail issues. The exam policy debate centered on exemptions. Opposition led by faculty members Newhouse and Turek killed the proposal. The commission was deadlocked over whether pass-fail should be offered for all electives or just selected skills courses and thus no action had been taken.

Rules and Regulations, headed by Phil Symes, fought trash in the cafeteria with questionable success.

Rights and Responsibilities, chaired by Paul Durieux, acted as a student grievance board. The sole complaint, however, was withdrawn leaving the commission largely inactive.

Service, Cultural Commissions Plan SFAC Activities

One of the most important and probably the most familiar of the SFAC commissions is the Service Commission. Chaired by Madeleine Estabrook, the commission acts as one of the planning and organizing branches of the school government. The activities of the Service Commission for the school year included the publication of the Student Directory in the Fall and the well attended Homecoming Dance in honor of the preceding year's alumni. In the Spring, the Service Commission organized the Variety Show and planned the International Dinner. The concluding project for the Commission was the Club Carnival.

Another of SFAC's planning arms is the Cultural Commission. Headed by Judy Bunnell, it worked to broaden the cultural horizons of students at Yorktown. With this emphasis they co-sponsored several interesting activities this year with different departments and honor societies.

The first major event was the Oktoberfest, co-sponsored with German Honors and the Keyettes. Another enjoyable activity was the Far Eastern Festival in March. The week-long program included food demonstrations, films, speakers and video-tapes on the Far East. Still other events planned by the Commission were Foreign Language Week, the Winter Festival and the Humanities Festival. Between them, the Service and Cultural Commissions kept Yorktown students rolling in fun activities.

As Jonathan Currier suggests that a brew-haha should be part of the Oktoberfest, Cultural Commissions members laugh before doing him in.

Service Commission members Joe Golden, John Groom, David McClure and Madeleine Estabrook whip up more great activities.

The third annual Oktoberfest was held October 25th. This event was co-sponsored by the SFAC Cultural Commission, German Honor Society, and Keyettes to honor the Munich Beer Festival held every autumn.

Entertainment included an Um-Pa-Pa band and a German folk dancing led by Frau Holl. The festivities were held near the tennis courts and included such appropriate refreshments as bratwurst, sauerkraut, and root beer.

Foreign Language Week was sponsored by the Language Honor Societies. Speakers, a bike race, a soccer game and the International Dinner highlighted the week.

Homecoming 75 — "Stairway To Heaven"

Billed as the social event of the season, Homecoming drew flocks of students to Yorktown's incomparable ballroom facilities, the cafeteria and the auditorium lobby. Over three hundred couples attended the annual dance, enough for SFAC to turn a hefty six hundred dollar profit on an event that traditionally loses money. Two excellent bands, Omega, a rhythm and blues group and Cape Horn, a brass-rock combo, along with impressive decorations were chiefly responsible for the large turnout.

Former Sophomore attendant Jeanne Schram once again took honors as official femme fatale of the class of '75, defeating Diane Leith and Liz Taylor for the title. Junior Linda Farrell and Sophomore Esther Williamson were the attendants. Principal W. Ralph Kier bestowed the traditional crown and roses on Queen Schram, after which the evening's three belles and their beaux danced to Homecoming's theme song.

Decorations illustrated the Led Zeppelin hit song Stairway to Heaven. Nancy Buffum, Don Johnson, Lee Litzenberger and Hyong-bum Kim worked under the direction of Madeleine Estabrook to design posters depicting Heaven, Limbo and Hell in the cafeteria, lower corridor and auditorium lobby, respectively. The decorations were highlighted by a meticulously drawn display of the lyrics to Stairway to Heaven.

By the evening's end, the crowded dance floor had become a sauna, one explanation for why wallets were so much lighter when the night was over. Few students complained, however, since Homecoming was such a great dance. So great in fact, that even the chaperones are reputed to have had a good time.

Yorktown Finalists Reap Honors In NMSQT

Yorktown produced its usual bumper crop of National Merit Semi-Finalists this year. Sixteen students scored two hundred or better on the PSAT-NMSQT to win the coveted title. In a class of five hundred this represents an impressive six times the national average.

Qualifying this year were Judy Bunnell, Steve Hufford, Ernie Sanders, Neel Smith, Rick Bram, Jeff Matsuura, Andy Mosholder and Jim Lester.

Also qualifying were Lisa Overton, Lizann Peyton, Cindy Birch, Nancy Buffum, Melvin Holmes, Carol Kostik, Peter Rintels and Steve Starkey.

In a further display of academic prowess, mental athletes Peter Rintels, Ernie Sanders and Neel Smith emerged victorious in "It's Academic" competition against St. Johns Military Academy and High Point. An enthusiastic crowd backed the team, shouting down opposition efforts to cheer for their teams and delaying the start of the taping nearly half an hour. The crowd eventually approved the start of the show, however, and the festivities began. Yorktown darted out to an early lead in the opening scrimmage on an impressive display by Ernie Sanders. The team came into the grab bag round twenty points behind High Point but clutch answers in this round gave the team its winning margin. The team goes on to a second round of competition after press time.

Classless Society Dominates Student Center

A likely person to be found hanging around a pool hall, Mr. Kurcis presents a trophy to pool champion Joe Porubsky.

Besides providing a place to waste away one's money on alleged Macke delights, the Student Center also offers a place to relax, study, or hold casual conversations with friends. Contributing to this informal atmosphere were the popular bumper pool, pool, and ping-pong tables for student recreation.

A welcome addition to the Center this year was a new pool table to be used alongside its legendary partner, famous for curving shots and magnetic pockets.

No mention of the Student Center would be complete without mention of its function as a haven for class skippers. A favorite variation of the simple class skip is the student who innocently leaves class to do research in the library, but, getting lost on the way, mysteriously ends up in the Student Center.

The center was under the direction of Mrs. McCord and Mrs. Flegal.

Juniors Take Brutal Powderpuff Game

Braving one of those ferocious onslaughts from the senior defensive line, Junior quarterback Kay Hilliard puts one up for grabs.

Every year when the football season ends, junior and senior girls clash in the annual Powderpuff football game. In a game dominated by brutal action, freak plays, and questionable calls, the juniors emerged victorious. Upperclasswomen practiced under the direction of Bruce Anderson and Neel Smith while their junior counterparts worked with Justin Chretien, Beel Cocker, and Jon Jones.

The senior offense, led by Quarterback Dottie Olsen mounted a solid drive, which ended in a Christie Binford TD run. Peggy Brown ran for the two point conversion giving the seniors an 8-0 lead.

Undaunted, the juniors rebounded strongly in what proved to be a brutal second half as girls began grabbing shirts, pants, and flesh instead of flags. Second half scoring began as Junior Diane Lacklen intercepted a Dottie Olsen pass and returned 37 yards for a TD. The conversion failed, making the score 8-6.

No further scoring took place until the final two minutes. At this point a junior drive was stopped on the senior half yard line, where the seniors took over. A nine man blitz caused a fumble in the endzone which the juniors recovered for a touchdown and a 14-8 lead. Moments later, Diane Lacklen picked off another Dottie Olsen pass and romped 75 yards for a third touchdown, giving the juniors a 20-8 victory.

Senior Dottie Olsen levels Junior Joan Gilmore with a right to the jaw in the first round of the Annual Powderpuff game as speedster Peggy Brown flashes by.

Winter And Far East Festivals Promote Humanities

The school board recommended last year that all Arlington County public schools strive to emphasize four specific educational goals in their planning of activities. These goals were to improve progress in reading, writing, the humanities and human relations. A series of festivals concerning diverse cultural themes was held throughout the year to expand student exposure to the humanities at Yorktown.

The first of these was the Winter Holiday Festival, held during the week of December 9th. A committee of four faculty members; Marilyn Henkel, James Allen, Susan Flegal, and Susan Nicholas worked in conjunction with the SFAC Academic Commission to plan the schedule of interdisciplinary programs.

Films relating to winter activities such as skiing and Christmas were presented each day of festival week during the two lunch periods. Also, assorted crafts were taught by Mrs. McCord of the student center and Senior Andrea Popa while the foods class demonstrated the preparation of popcorn balls and holiday cookies.

The last three days provided a chance for students to attend assemblies during a special mid-morning activity period. Many students participated in workshops in departmental fields such as physical education (the martial arts,) music (madrigals and band concerts,) literature (poetry and holiday readings) and others.

A second festival in mid-March dealt with the culture of the Far East. Far Eastern philosophies and customs being unfamiliar to most students, a series of seminars was sponsored to deal with the topics. The Festival was sponsored by UDM classes, the Far Eastern History class and World Lit. Included were field trips and a wide variety of lectures. The lectures were highlighted by a visit from a Buddhist Monk and a lecture of Zen by the infinitely gurusy Marth Delaney.

Humanities Week in May culminated the various festivals and brought students into contact with the wide range of humanities that are around them.

Blacks Search for Identity at YHS

With a sharp racial ratio of about 50 to 1500, the black community at Yorktown has found identity in sticking together. However, as these contrasting numbers slowly begin to even out, important influences can be noted in elements of the school's lifestyle. One element that has been most strongly affected by participation from Yorktown's black community is sports. The importance of athletics in the black lifestyle is evident with the high attendance at open gym sessions and impromptu lunch hour games. Yorktown's Varsity sports have also obtained valuable players from the black community. There is a sense of equality in athletic competition. Sports has proved to be an area in which all students have an opportunity to communicate freely.

The academic program at Yorktown is still adjusting to black-oriented course offerings in hopes that their addition will even out the general structure. Scattered feelings of apathy still remain among many of the students. However, some students feel that for the most part Blacks have a better chance of getting an education at Yorktown than at any of the other Arlington high schools. There seems to be a need for more black teachers and especially a black counselor at Yorktown. It is felt that this would provide an academic atmosphere with which black students could better identify.

As to the general racial atmosphere at Yorktown, there seems to be little tension. It was revealed in a Human Relations poll that less than 5% of the students who responded considered Black-White relations a problem at Yorktown. Rare flare-ups between students are most commonly the result of individual attitudes, and are not representative of the larger group feelings.

One program that further benefitted Black-White relations at Yorktown was Black Heritage Week. It consisted of a series of presentations featuring black speakers and artists in a week of assemblies. Guest artists included Ms. Margo Barnett with her Emmy award winning performance of "Black is a Beautiful Woman". Harold McClinton and Ted Vactor of the Washington Redskins also visited Yorktown during the week of awareness. A jazz-ballet production by the Hammond Dancers was another attraction at one of the popular assemblies. A committee of Yorktown's black students headed by coordinator Sheri Warrington started off the week with a presentation of readings, skits and a dance. It was a great success in spite of the absence of the guest speaker, Mr. Fred Thomas of WRC-TV. The concluding program of the Black Heritage Week was a performance by the Young People's Choir of the Macedonian Baptist Church. Headed by faculty sponsors Marilyn Henkel and Timothy Jecko, the week-long program turned out to be a success for both the awareness goals of Black Heritage Week as well as the promotion of even better Black-White student relations.

Apathy, a problem of many black students, doesn't apply to these two as they merrily move on to their next class.

Shari Warrington looks on as Sherri Gardner opens the series of Black Heritage Week assemblies with the Black National Anthem.

The lack of racial tension at Yorktown is evident as these students meet in the Media Center for gossip during lunch.

One aspect of Black Heritage Week was seen through a presentation by the Hammond Dancers.

The Forum was honored with a visit from linebacker Harold McClinton of the Washington Redskins.

The average adolescent if asked what things he could not live without would probably answer spending money, a car, and perhaps a fake I.D. Literally, however, it is food that students can't live without and much of student life is spent in search of this most necessary of all nutrients.

Offerings in the cafeteria ranged from a fair tuna salad to hamburgers best described as inedible. In addition to edibility, nutrition and price were also problems. A Washingtonian article characterized the Forum as nutritionally "dismal" due to the volume of junk food sold. A mid-year break-in to the machines brought a rise in prices, adding to complaints about Macke.

All this made lunchtime alternatives look better. Local carry-outs such as Mac's, Gino's, and Burger King provided the luncheon fare of hamburger, fries, and a coke.

Downtown restaurants dominated the night scene. Gusti's and Luigi's, noted for delicious pizza, attracted many customers. Blackie's Jr. and Emerson's were also popular. Numerous small and out-of-the-way places acquired business as they provided a locale for those seeking a secluded and special surrounding.

Virginia's recent change of the legal drinking age to 18 returned much of the lucrative liquor business to the suburbs. Safeway, Drug Fair and High's replaced the legendary Foxhall as the chief supplier of alcohol. Also because of this change, nearby places such as Johnny's and J.J.'s received increased patronage.

With so many choices, finding the necessary sustenance was never a problem for the Yorktown crowd. In fact, presented the local food offerings, the crowd just ate it up.

Dismayed at the rising prices, this unidentified underclassman buys a candy bar to appease his appetite.

Evening Festivities Highlight Spirit Week

Spirit is an issue that never dies at Yorktown. Within any group of students one will find some who believe that Yorktown has too little spirit and those who believe that it has too much. The issue was fought out in the SENTRY as Chris Malone wrote a letter to the editor declaring that "Yorktown should get people more hyped-up" for sporting events. Replying in his satire column, Peter Rintels wrote that in view of what our unspirited students did to W-L during "spirit week", school spirit advocates would not be satisfied until we worship the ground that Yorktown is built on and then outlined a way that this might be done.

Regardless of what people said about spirit, there is no question but that it was on the rise. The reason, no doubt, is that Yorktown athletics enjoyed one of their most successful seasons in the school's history. Basketball, whose 15-5 record was its best ever, saw a 30% jump in gate receipts over last year. Rises in attendance were noted for other sports as well.

As usual, "Spirit Week" took place before the W-L — Yorktown game, highlighted this year by the destruction of both schools. Yorktown struck first, combining the traditional toilet papering and spray painting with the not-so-traditional burning a "Y" in the W-L field with herbicide and digging a five-foot trench there as well. The next day, W-L's student body President addressed Yorktown over the loudspeaker, declaring that everybody should "cool it" and that although Yorktown had just wrecked W-L, W-L would "let that slide." The "slide" ended twelve hours later as, according to witnesses, one hundred carloads of W-L students descended upon Yorktown. The malicious hoard did a TP and spray paint job which though lacking in creativity, was, one must admit, competently executed. Police patrols successfully prevented retaliation and things cooled off until the game, which Yorktown lost 14-6.

On the other side of the spirit coin was the proposed Apathy Honor Society. According to organizer Neel Smith, role is called at every meeting and anyone attending is automatically expelled. The club charter was awaiting Service Commission approval at press time.

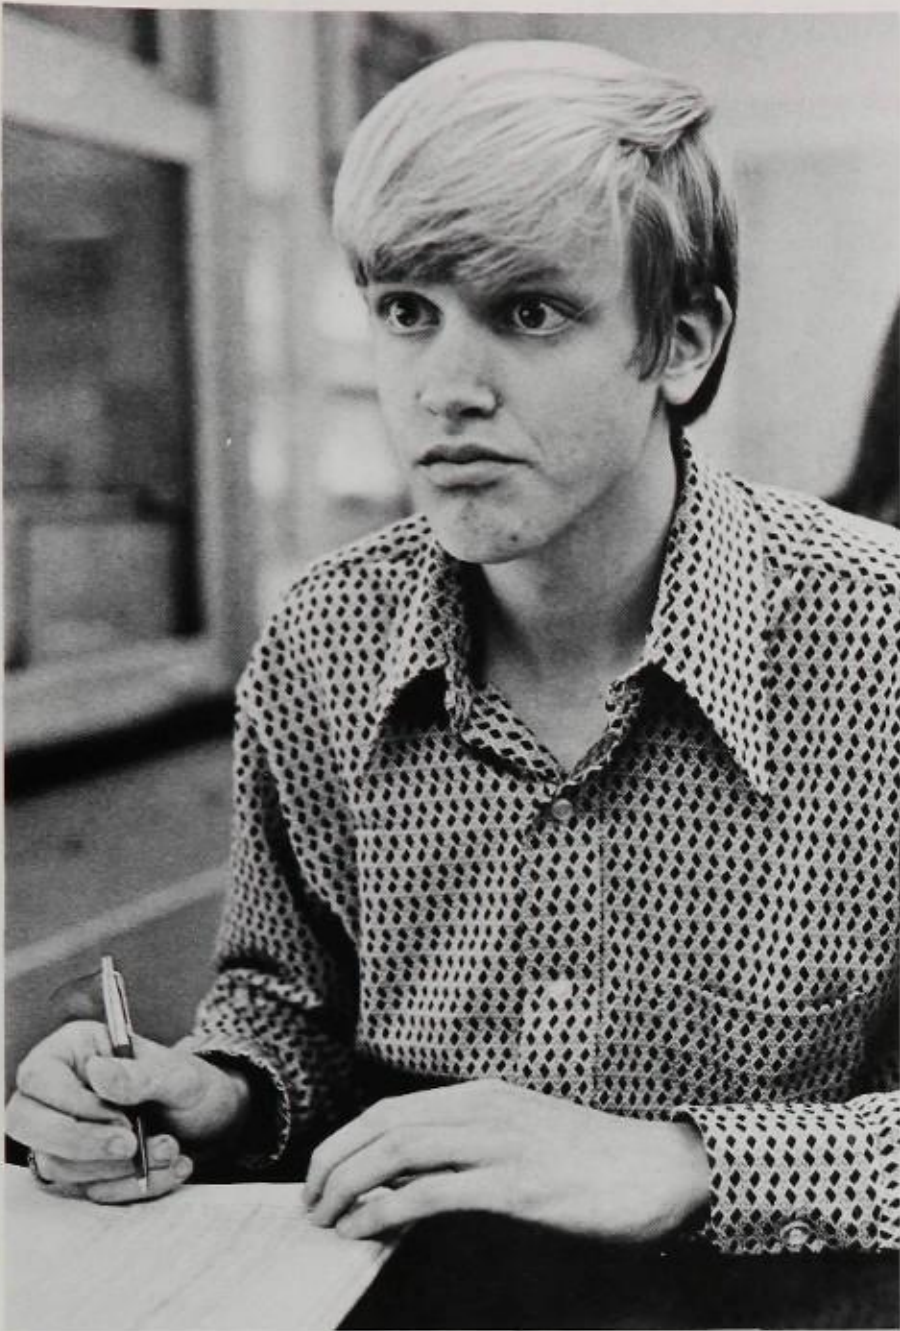

Thus, there were diverse and divergent views on spirit at Yorktown. But it can't be said there was no spirit here since even the most apathetic student cared enough to make it an issue.

As students give comic depictions of W-L athletes, Jimmy Gee gets in belly laughs (what else?) at a spirited pep rally.

Young Performers Present Middle Age Plays

Drama head Jim Jecko reached back to the Middle Ages twice this year to bring Yorktown two major drama productions; "Canterbury Tales" and "Dr. Faustus".

"Canterbury Tales", a collection of stories told by peasants in a pilgrimage to a cathedral, was presented in November. The play starred Laurie Kettler, Paul Gross, and Andrew White.

Paul Gross again led the cast of "Dr. Faustus", the story of medieval magician who sells his soul to the Devil. Jeff Keidel co-starred as Mephistophilis, the Prince of Hell, but otherwise a pretty nice guy. Mr. Jecko scripted the production himself, drawing upon versions of the tale by Marlowe and Goethe.

Human Relations Workshops New At YHS

Dr. Larry Cuban, superintendent of schools, outlined the four basic problems he found in the Arlington Public School System and cited the lack of human relations training as one of them. In view of this, Yorktown developed a committee of faculty, students, and parents to deal with the human relations problems.

Ms. Carol Egermeier was the faculty representative to this committee and acted as a co-chairman with senior Jan Ward. The steering committee was chosen at a bi-monthly meeting of the student leaders commission. These people helped outline the function and purpose of the Human Relations Committee.

A diverse group of ninety students was sent invitations to the first workshop. Its objective was to identify problems at Yorktown and the committee discovered that apathy was among them as only forty people attended. A second seminar dealt with cultural diversity. Dr. Russell Adams, head of Afro-American students at Harvard University, spoke at the workshop. A third seminar on cliques, open to all students, was held on February 19th.

Students' reaction to the Human Relations problems was polled during a homeroom in February. The majority felt that there were problems. The most significant were student-teacher relations and the existence of cliques. Students cited friction between themselves and "jocks," "Einsteins," "Christians," and "gay persons." Many complaints were about counselor irresponsibility. The workshops attempted to deal directly with these subjects rather than to provide merely a chance to air gripes. For the most part, the Human Relations Committee was successful in this way.

This subcommittee has helped to bring cultural diversity to the Human Relations Workshops.

Citing apathy as a major problem the Human Relations committee conducts business at a sparsely attended meeting.

Faculty

To the Seniors, I commend you for having met the requirements for graduation from high school. The attention, dedication, and hard work you have given to fulfill this requirement will now be put to a real test. How well you measure up to the challenges as you proceed with further educational training or in the work world will be based upon the foundation of education and training you have received and applied over the past twelve years. During your three years of high school you have been privileged to make some determination as to the manner in which you would utilize your unscheduled time during the school day. I hope that this experience has made possible your being able to be very selective in determining future goals. This can be accomplished by making a self-appraisal, planning your program and then setting your sights. I wish for each of you success in whatever venture you may enter.

To the underclassmen, I invite you to review your previous school years in evaluating how well you have measured up to your expectations. In this rapidly changing world, there is a greater demand than ever to have diverse skills, and the ability to adjust to new situations. This can only be accomplished by your involvement in a full program of studies and by active participation in school activities. The opportunities are present in Yorktown; take advantage of them.

The faculty sponsor and staff of this Grenadier have spent many hours in developing a book that records the events of the 1974-75 school year. I commend each of them for the contribution they have made and the high quality of this book.

W. Ralph Kier
Principal

Yorktown High School serves a community of parents, students, and teachers with diverse needs and interests. Because of this diversity, an instructional and extracurricular program has been developed to respond to the many concerns which are represented.

The entire Yorktown community contributes to a strength that provides input so vital to continued growth.

It is my pleasure to work with parents, students, and the professional staff in the ongoing development at Yorktown High School. We can look with pride to previous accomplishments as we face the new challenges. The challenges confronting us are continued excellence and evolution to meet the ever changing demands of day-to-day living.

I see an increase in the seriousness of purpose of all our students at each grade level.

I feel that each person attending Yorktown has a capacity to do great things. However we need more students to become actively involved in such projects as our S.F.A.C., service clubs, and other extra-curricular activities. Yorktown especially needs more participation from minority students.

I much appreciate the friendships that I have established here with the many students that I have come in contact with during the course of my duties. I also extend my most sincere wishes to all graduating seniors.

Steve Kurcis
Dean of Boys

It has become my privilege to participate within the extraordinary educational community that is Yorktown High School. The intangible element which sets Yorktown apart from other schools might be our tremendous reservoir of human resources. The individuals of the Yorktown school community constitute a literally limitless potential.

It is my sincere hope that we all maximize our contributions to and benefits derived from the individuals we touch as we work together. To proudly become what is within us to become, is our mission.

Best wishes and good luck to each and everyone, staff and student.

Library

The informal atmosphere in the Media Center has encouraged students to take advantage of its modern facilities. With its large collection of up-to-date materials in the areas of reading, viewing and listening, it has won plaudits from students, faculty and parents alike. Programs ranging from individualized instruction to more formal class work were facilitated by a liberal circulation policy including no fines or due dates.

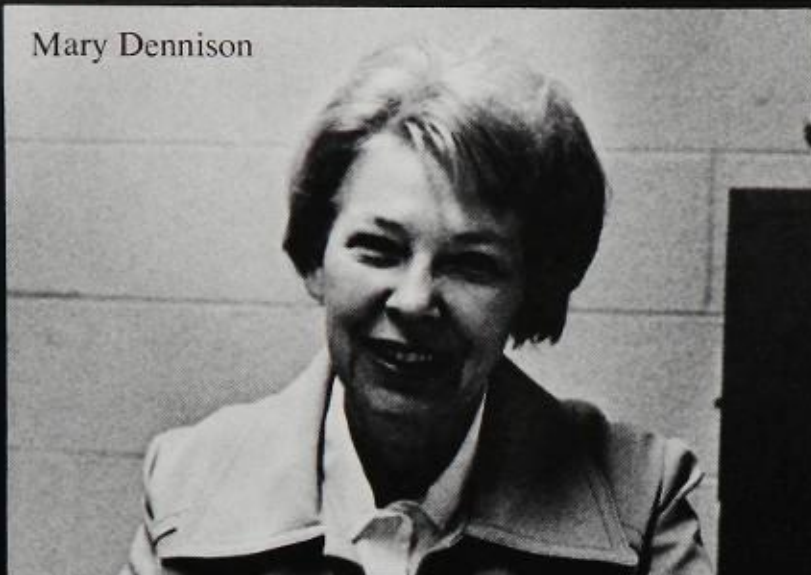

The library was staffed this year by Head Librarian, Carol Jenkins, and assistants Carol Egermeir and Eleanor Wright.

However, such an informal library system places an important responsibility on those who use it. In order to continue to have the availability of such a vast array of reference materials, students should use good judgement and consideration in using and returning the materials offered. This has been a problem in the past and requires everyone's attention. The success of this beneficial service deserves the cooperation of all.

Guidance

Not being able to acquire sufficient counseling from Madame Zingo herself of Zingo's Palmistry and Hardware, students from Yorktown took their problems to the Guidance Department. While the five counselors could not predict new moons and tidal waves, they could aid students in many other helpful ways.

Each student is assigned to a counselor who correlates information between the parent, counselor and pupil on such matters as the student's personal and educational needs, as well as career planning.

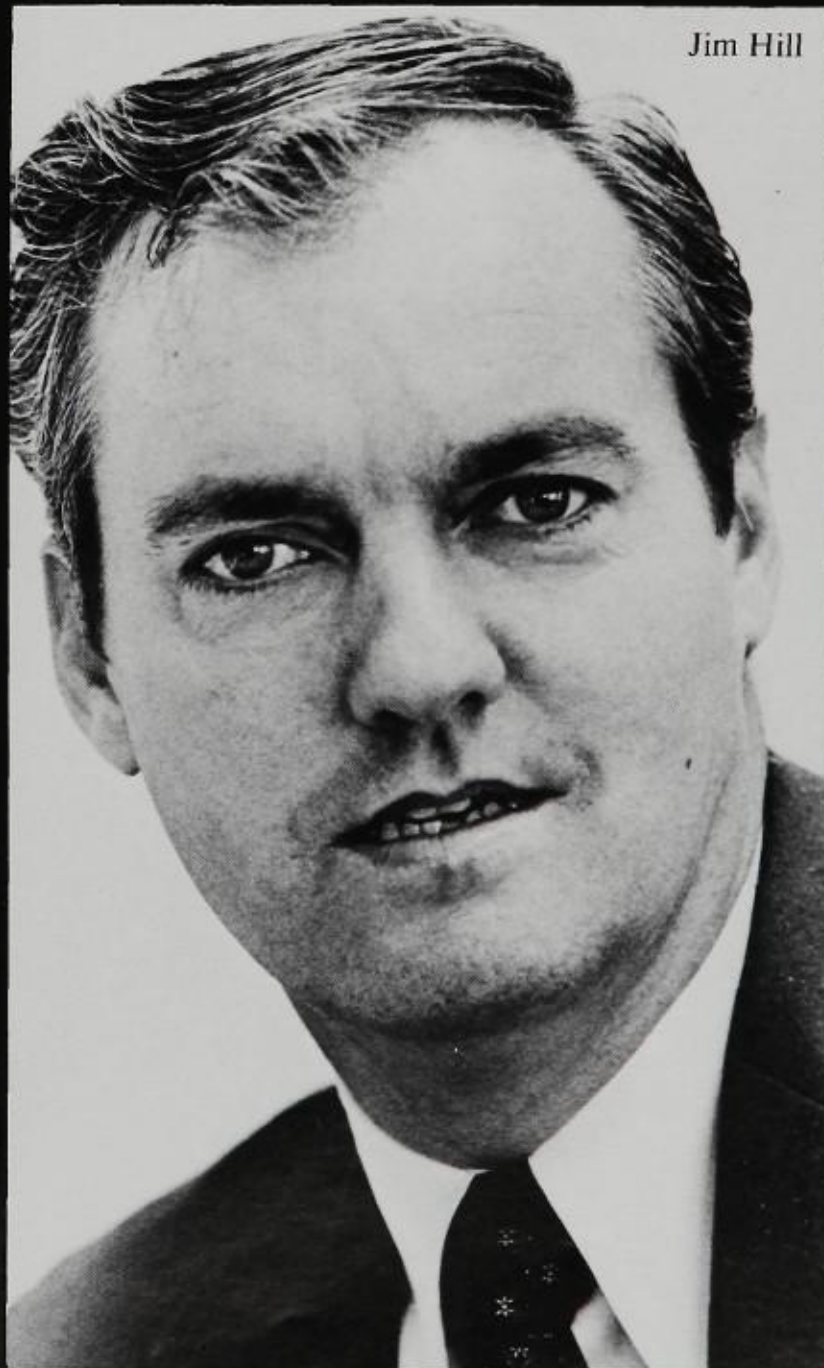

The Guidance Department recently developed a system in which the student could individually choose his own schedule. In doing this, the department has eliminated many of the problems involved with scheduling.

The counselors proved to be very helpful to seniors with their college applications. Consequently, Madame Zingo had to rely on fertilizer sales to stay in business this year.

English

The very successful elective program constituted a major part of the English curriculum. The English Department, headed by Gerry Shelton, claims that its main goal is to help the individual student increase his vocabulary, strengthen his reading comprehension and improve his writing skills. The elective courses, which range from Oriental Literature to T.V. Writing, are aimed at meeting these goals, but if a student is having particular trouble he may seek help in the new special skills labs.

Some of the most popular quarter courses are Existential Hero, Art of the Film, and Acting. Seniors continue to enjoy Universal and Diverse Man and Mrs. Delaney's World Literature.

The English Department expects that after three years of instruction students will have an appreciation of literary masterpieces and will have developed skills in the expression of and communication within the English language.

Mathematics

The courses and the manner in which they are to be taught have been organized differently by the Mathematics Department this year, with the aid of many new books at all levels of math. Teachers placed emphasis on attaining for the student, good basic computational skills as well as forming rigid principles behind properties. For those students who wished to pursue math more extensively without following the regular academic schedule, a new course, Application of Mathematics was added to the curriculum.

The Math Department has been ravaged by the recent budget cutting of the school board. The vociferous protest of teachers facing 35-student classes, however, prompted the hiring of a new teacher, Mrs. Joan McIntosh.

Social Studies

Improvement of teaching methods and promotion of value classifications skills marked the goals of the Social Studies this year.

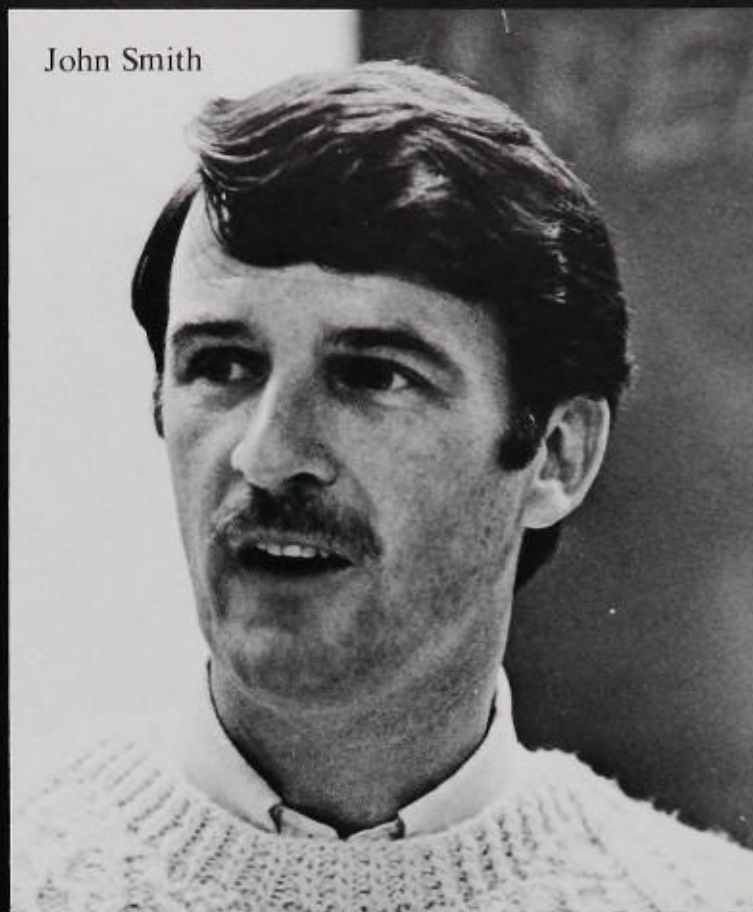

Department members strived to develop more effective methods of teaching by attending up-to-date seminars and conventions. This was done in an effort to make classes more interesting for students involved in the various courses the department offered. Emphasis was also placed on value classification, or in other words the exploration of issues through informative resources.

Universal and Diverse Man (UDM) has found a new home in room 30. Psychology taught by Mr. Lee, has drawn students at every grade level because of the intriguing course curriculum.

Progress within the department has led to the exploration of social, cultural and economic aspects of life and assessment of values relative to contemporary problems.

Science

The Science Department, headed by Biology teacher and part time soccer coach James Allen, is divided into three major sections: Biology, Chemistry, and Physics.

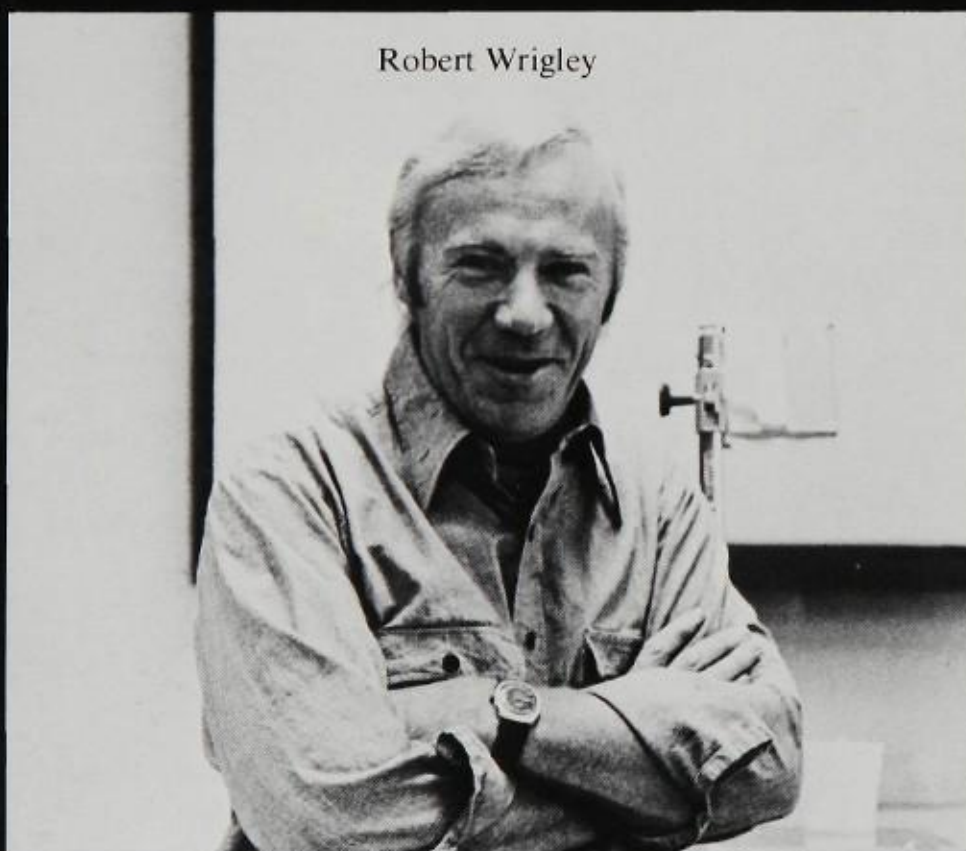

For the first time, Biology is being offered on a quarterly system. Students spend the first nine weeks in an introductory course, with subsequent quarters spent in electives such as "Genetics and Evolution" and "Vertabrates and Invertebrates." Also offered is Biology II for advanced students.

In the Chemistry section, two courses are offered: CHEM Study (for Chemical Education Material Study) and Principles of Chemistry, a more traditional course.

Under the guise of a traditional Physics course, Robert Wrigley has brought many of the latest liberal teaching innovations to his section. Mr. Wrigley expects students to "take the responsibility for their own education," and the Physics course reflects this philosophy. Innovations include grade contracts, group testing, and "Humanistic Physics" lectures.

Foreign Language

This year's Foreign Language Department not only placed emphasis on the language itself, but on enhancing interrelating skills such as reading and the mathematics involved in metric conversion.

As in years past, the department, headed by Alan Holt, decided to continue their policy of teaching the customs, values and cultures of other countries while at the same time comparing them to our own. In doing this, the department wants to achieve the important goal of informing students of various cultural differences, so vital to the understanding of our global neighbors. Accomplishing these goals made it an excellent year for the Yorktown Language Department.

Business

The Business Education Department furnishes an excellent opportunity for vocational preparation. It provides an imaginative, informative, and diverse program of studies so that students may truly understand all aspects and fundamental elements within the free enterprise system.

Students may learn principles of economics, consumer finance, office practice, and business law. The Business Department also aids in the development of high ethical standards, honesty, and proper morals. In this day and age the skills offered by this department are in great demand and are therefore helpful to today's student.

Music

The 1974-75 school year proved to be another active one for the Yorktown Music Department. The band, Thursday Night Crowd (TNC) and Jazz Lab are directed by Richard Ramsdell while Ann-Lee Knobloch conducted the Orchestra and the Madrigals.

A fall offshoot of these groups, the marching band, took to the field during football halftimes clad in ten thousand dollars worth of new uniforms. It was under the student direction of Earl Schaeffer. New to the Jazz Lab Band is a vocal group "The Friends."

As usual, the Music Department entered its students in a plethora of band competitions. Results came in after press time, however it is safe to say that a typically strong Music Department won numerous awards. Innovations and enthusiasm account undoubtedly for its success.

Art

The Art Department promotes an opportunity for all its students to discover how art affects them individually in their everyday lives.

In spite of the 33% reduction of its staff, the Art Department at Yorktown is still flourishing. Classes are large and interest is great in the new specialized courses. Mrs. Ramona Smart and Mr. Lloyd Hicks form the team offering courses in crafts, fine arts, and commercial design. Mrs. Smart now heads the crafts courses along with the Commercial Design I course which deals with design fundamentals. Mr. Hicks instructs students in Commercial Design II and III dealing with various methods of print making. The Silk Screen Club was founded by the students of this class and provide many of the services essential to our performing groups.

Specialization is found in the new planning of fine arts courses. Students choose from Painting and Drawing, Ceramics or Sculpture as opposed to traditional conglomerate art courses offering work in each. This allows for more time for the student to explore his own creative expression through various media, and the resulting work turns out finer as students have a chance to concentrate in their chosen media. Some of the categories reviewed in many of the new courses include fundamental elements of industrial design, architectural design, the fine arts, commercial art and hobby art.

With all the courses and choices the art students are offered and the informal teaching methods, the Art Department is functioning well.

Physical Education

The Physical Education Department offers students a chance to break away from classroom rigors to a period of good exercise. Only sophomores are required to take Physical Education, along with a nine weeks Health course, however, many options are open for juniors and seniors who wish to continue with a physical education program. Recreational courses include Golf, Fencing, Hosteling, Archery, and Self-Defence. A general Physical Education 11, or 12 is still offered for those who prefer a traditional gym course. In addition to their teaching duties, instructors also coach Yorktown varsity sports. Teachers encourage the development of healthy, competitive attitudes, such as cooperation, good sportsmanship and hard work.

Home Economics

In view of the sudden liberation of women, one would expect enrollment in "future housewife" courses such as cooking, sewing, and child raising to decline. Male and female students alike, however, are discovering the practicality of such knowledge and Home Economic classes remain packed.

Home Economics is divided into three areas: Clothing, Foods, and Child Development. Each is co-educational and is taken in semester segments.

Consumer education is a central theme in the department. Foods, and Clothing in particular remind the buyer to beware. Students are advised to beware of mortgage traps, budget wisely, and read Consumer Reports.

Child Development is Yorktown's school within a school. While working with pre-school children, students learn about family life and even a bit about themselves.

Industrial Arts

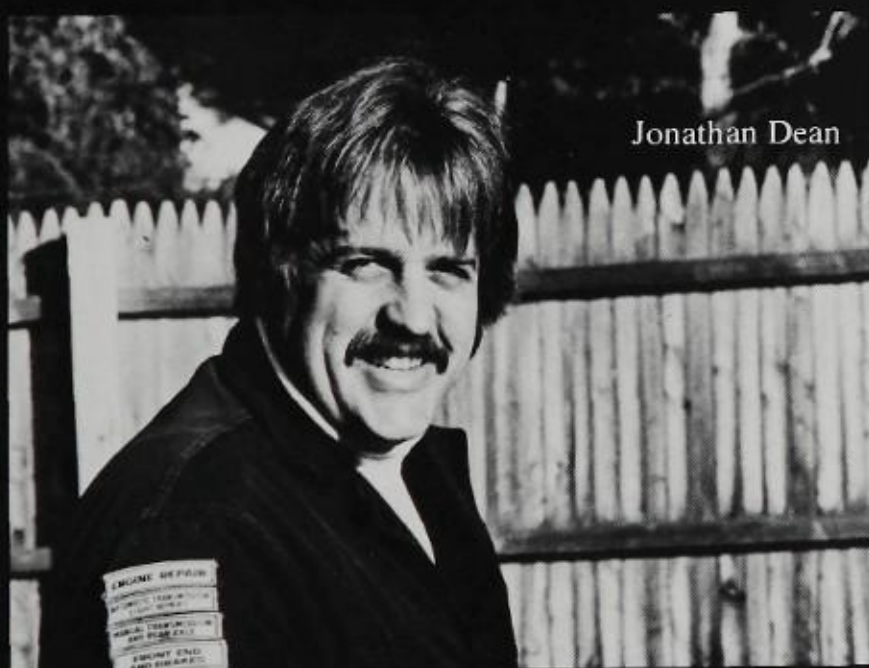

It is becoming common these days to question the relevance of such classes as English, History, and Math. Practicality is easily seen, however, in a marketable skill and this is what makes Industrial Arts so important today.

While offering such academically oriented courses as Electronics and Mechanical Drawing, the Industrial Arts curriculum deals mainly with cultivating skills. In courses such as Power Mechanics and Auto Mechanics, students take apart and reassemble inoperable cars supplied by the department. In addition to the courses above, there is Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT), a high school apprenticeship program which teaches useful skills for after graduation.

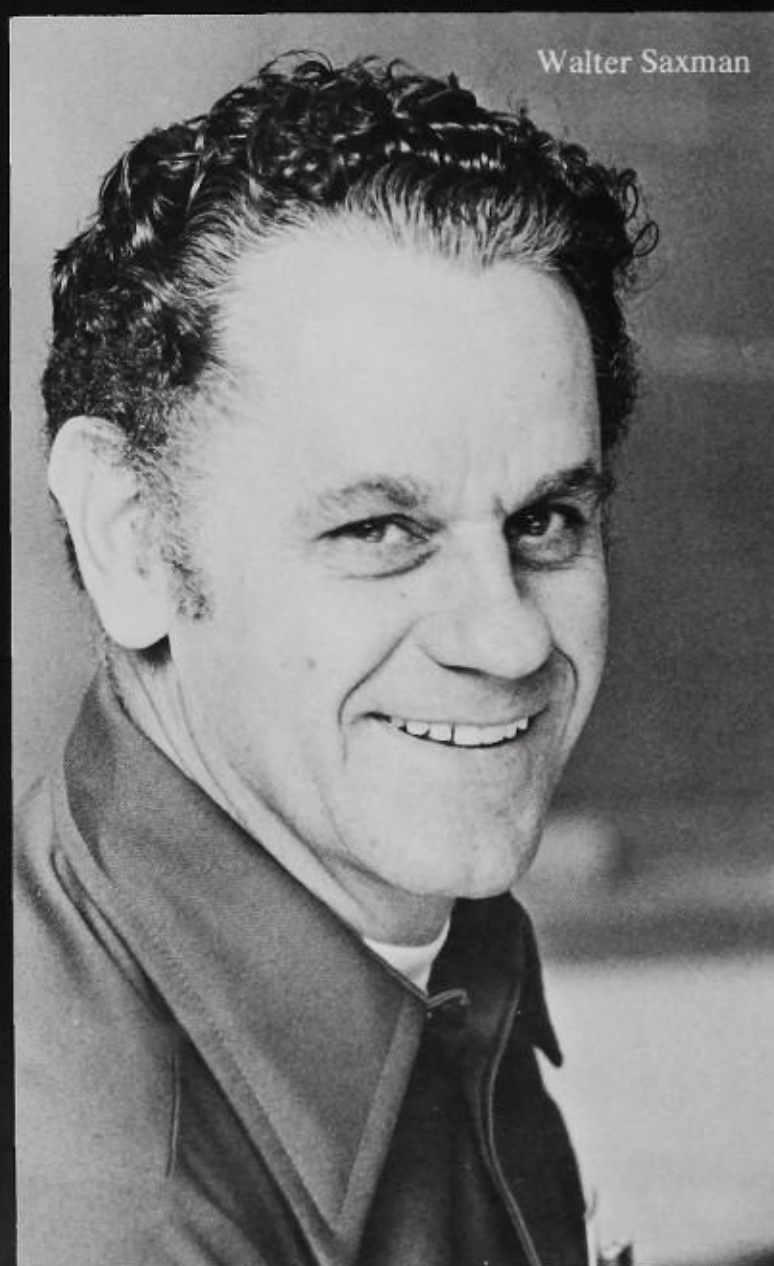

Inflation, hard hitting in many other departments at Yorktown, has hurt the Industrial Arts Department little as yet. This is largely because junked cars cost little or nothing and are therefore inflation proof. Still, outdated equipment eventually will need replacing, and that means a subsequent rise in the budget. We can only hope that it does not cost Yorktown a strong Industrial Arts Department for the future.

Secretaries

Those busy ladies pecking away at typewriters and pleasantly answering telephones in the office are members of the efficient secretarial staff of Yorktown.

The secretaries always manage to keep themselves busy in service to their school throughout the various departments. Besides the office secretaries, who perform such duties as handling college forms, typing the daily bulletin, distributing mail to the prospective boxes, and mass producing important information about clubs and activities, there are the secretaries of the English, Math, Science, and Foreign Language Departments, who lessen the already heavy burden of the hard working teachers of Yorktown.

Recreation

The one much appreciated addition to Yorktown is that of the well-loved recreation room handled by den mothers Mrs. Betty McCord and Mrs. Suzanne Fleagal. In concurrence with our diversified system, the Recreation Department provides a valuable means for keeping students off the streets during their unscheduled time.

These contributive ladies sell tickets to athletic events, supervise various bulletin boards, (including the media board) and sponsor varsity tournaments in ping-pong and pool. Mrs. McCord and Mrs. Fleagal however, are always agreeable in helping Yorktown students in their free time. Yes, and they still maintain some order in the unruly forum.

Clinic

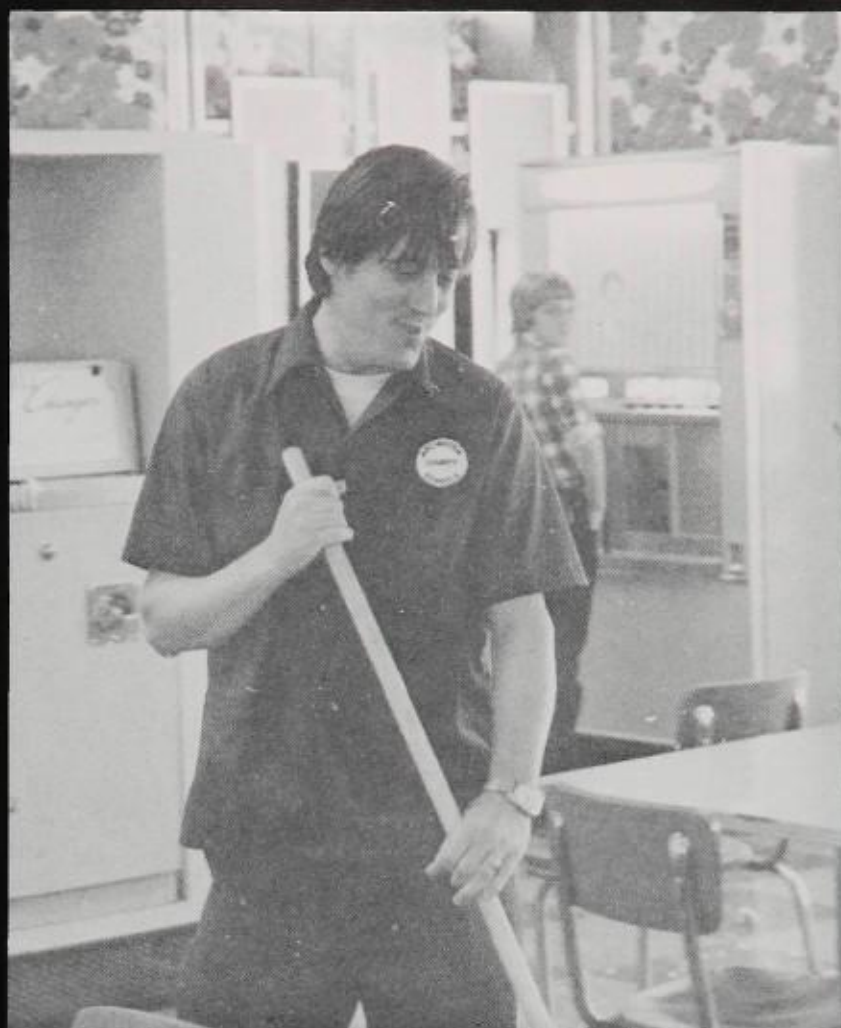

The clinic serves many purposes and is there for all students to use. School nurse Susan Ulvedal and Assistant Evelyn Sefton, with their knowledge of the ever changing needs of young adults, spot health troubles and urge students to see the appropriate doctor. In addition they try and promote good health habits among the student body members. Students with health problems or perhaps merely an upcoming test may take comfort that the Clinic is there to help.

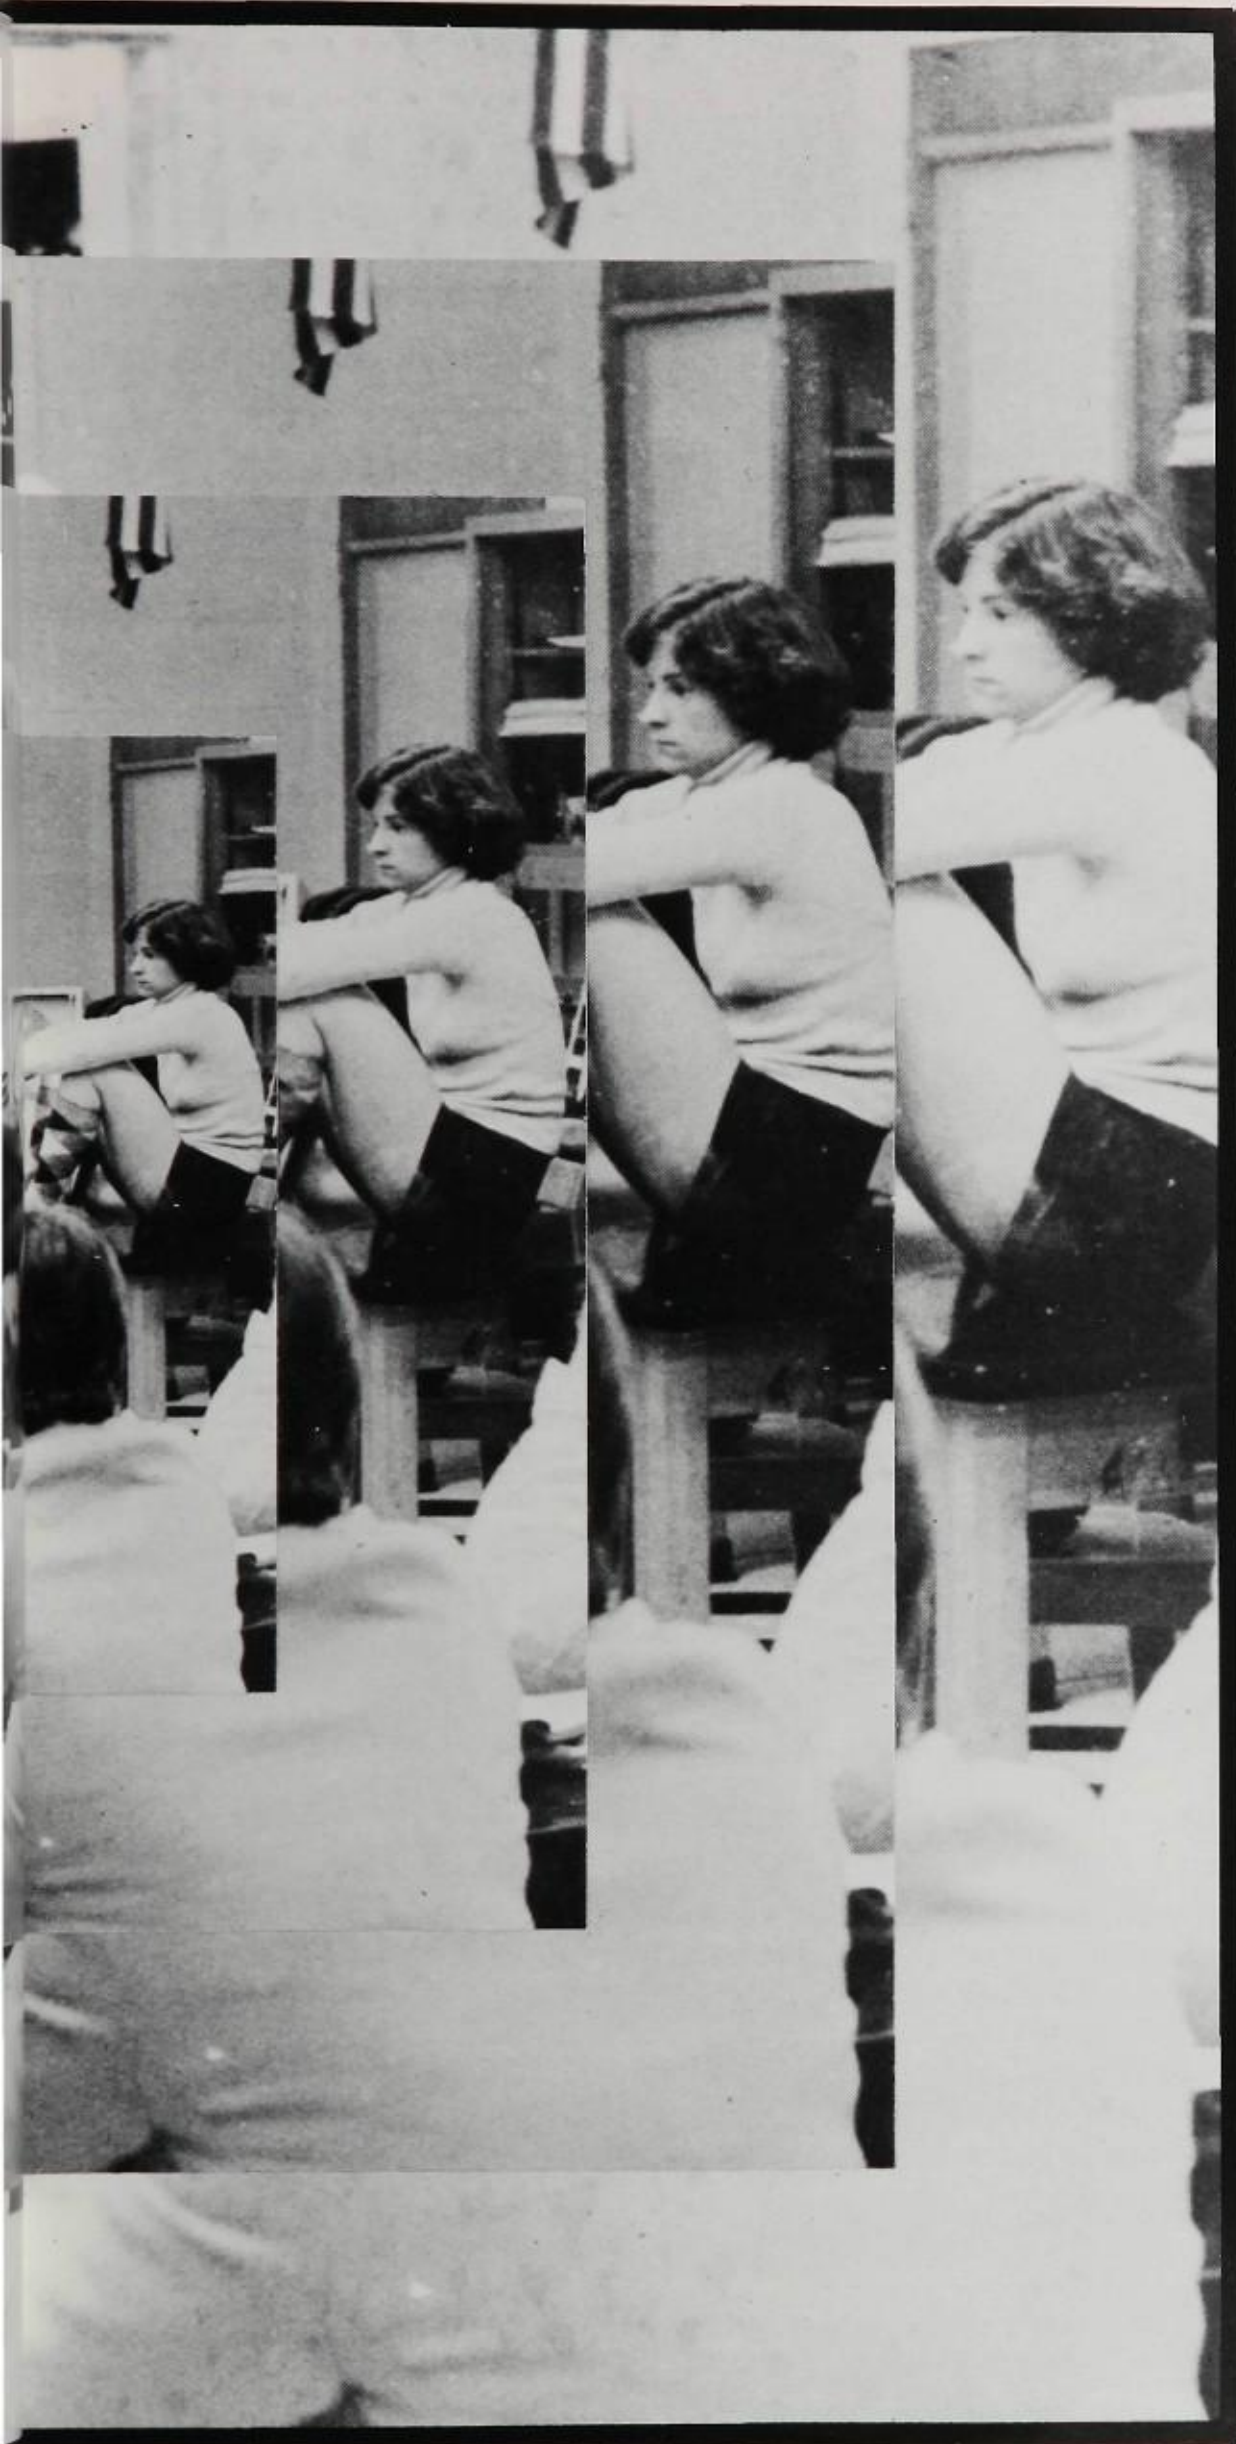

Custodial Staff

While the Arabs are cleaning up in oil, the custodial staff is busy cleaning up in Yorktown. Reduced personnel resulting from the year's budget cuts has increased the custodial staff's workload. Still, they find time to do favors for the students. It is a little known fact that the custodians are not paid to clean up in the cafeteria after the lunch periods. It is a well-known fact, however, that if they did not perform this service trash in the Forum would be six feet high in a week.

Custodial staff members are the first and last people to see the inside of Yorktown on a school day or at least they should be. Two shifts, ranging from 5:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m., have the custodians inhabiting the school building 18 hours a day, long enough for them to watch fifty carloads of W-L students destroy the building they worked so hard to keep clean during "SPIRIT WEEK".

The National Honor Society is an organization for students who have shown their academic ability by fulfilling a grade average requirement. Sophomores must have an overall 4.0 average while Juniors only have to receive a 3.5 average. The grade point average requirement for Senior students is 3.2 for all classes.

This honor society provided tutoring services for Yorktown students in the area of Math and Chemistry. Previously they have operated the school store but because of lack of money, people and general interest this year's group of members discontinued this function mid-year. The $1.00 dues went toward a Grenadier photograph and a spring picnic. The National Honor Society also started planning for the Bicentennial, a high priority to many of its' members.

Peter Rintels presents his paper, "Integrating Trigonometric Functions in the Deep South, Hope for the Seventies?" to skeptical math intellects McKelway, Sanders and Graham.

The Math Honor Society did quite a bit to further mathematics in Yorktown. By a combined 3.5 average in Algebra and Geometry or by a recommendation from one's Advanced Placement teacher, one may become a member of this honor society.

One important function they performed was to help students prepare for the Mathematics Association of America's Test that was given in March. They participated in the Northern Virginia Science Fair and the Virginia Junior Association of Science of symposium. The Math Honor Society sponsored a design for the Mars handler that was entered as a Viking Student project for NASA. Working as student aides for the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, some members assisted in workshops that prepared for the NCTM's convention. Competing in Computer Programming Tournaments also was of interest to members. It is in this way that the Math Honor Society provided activities to its members with a common interest in mathematics.

Thespian Troupe 1515 had two major performances this year as they have in the past. This group of twenty-two students produced, "The Canterbury Tales," in November and "Dr. Faustus" in March. Both plays were very successful.

Mr. Jecko sponsored the Thespians for the second year. He permitted them to again produce a totally student-run show near the close of school. President Margaret Sherman heads the club which finds its home in the well-known "Green Room." In addition to the above plays, the Thespians aided the drama classes' performances.

The group was financed for the most part by previous shows. The school treasury and fund raising projects provided other sources of income.

To obtain membership in Troupe 1515, one must acquire twelve points. These points are awarded for participation in the shows. One point is equivalent to ten hours of work. Needless to say, the majority of Thespians are junior and senior students. Perhaps the most well-known Thespian activity is the odd initiation of new members, characterized by costumes and beanies.

Obviously the "belle of the ball", Andrew Burgreen demonstrates it doesn't take two to tango.

Quill and Scroll Goes to New York

Jeff Hartman looks dismayed as Joe Golden and Anne James rake in the winnings for Quill and Scroll.

The Quill and Scroll Honor Society was not one of the most active organizations at Yorktown this year. The main priority in this group's activities was to pose for their GRENADIER portrait. None the less, certain members maintain their sense of humor about Quill and Scroll's purpose.

Membership requirements, however, are quite rigorous. One must be an active participant on either of the two publications, the GRENADIER or the SENTRY. These two groups travel annually to New York City for the Columbia Press Association's Convention on newspapers and yearbooks. Fun and frolic are always the result and future publications are always indebted to these journeys.

Presidents for the club were Kathy Sabri, Jeff Hartman, Joe Golden and Anne James. These people encouraged support of various school projects and participated in the Humanities Program in May sponsored by Mrs. Henkel.

Quill and Scroll Honor Society promoted high quality literature. It also served its vital function as one additional activity for club members to submit on a college application.

Welcome to "You Bet Your Sanity" the game show in which Yearbook staff members match their wits against deadlines, photography studios, publishing companies, and most of all, against themselves as they try to produce a Yearbook. In the first round, contestants Anne James and Joe Golden won the right to select a staff. From a standing room only audience, the staff was picked and told to "come on down."

Returning champions included Mike McCahey, John Groom, and Abon Chimal Akmed (winner of the Pete Rintels look-a-like contest). Remaining veteran Haywood Rich's taxi was late in arriving at the studio. Cleverly classifying applicants as PO, MO, or NO (a cryptic system deliberately designed to confuse outsiders), they assembled the motley crew whose work you now hold.

Spinning the wheel of fortune, seven members were awarded a trip to the Holiday Inn in Rosslyn to choose a cover, the answer read, "a graphic design in red and orange."

The team answered "What is a GERNADIER cover?" After much heckling the colors were changed to two conservative shades of blue. The staff celebrated at Luigi's.

Upon returning, the contestants began the first of five tournaments leading to the Grand Championship.

Julie Sprince and Cathy Groom guessed the password "Faculty" with only a second left to go while Rich, McCahey and Robinson pestered local sponsors for ads. Round two pitted contestants Freeman, Faris, Fox, and Kaster against the senior section. The game board directed them to the house of Akmed. One broken chair, unpotted plant, burnt table, and stripped transmission later, the contestants emerged victorious.

Caught on the sly, Julie Sprince flashes a foxy glance for our photographer.

Super typist and all around nice guy Bill Cocker swings into action without noticing that there's no paper in the typewriter.

"Take that," says Joan Gilmore at the end of a long underclass deadline.

The game board, however, threw up special obstacles to the next round's competitors. Deadlines and exams week coincided and Delma failed to deliver underclass portraits. Underclass contestants Joan Gilmore and Frances Jones chose the secret square that provided for blizzards and plenty of last minute hysteria. John Groom, Mary Ward, and Peter Romness completed their competition in the third tournament with superior ratings from the judges.

Bob Wilson unfortunately came down with the "weekend disease" but won the home contestants award. His colleagues, Susie Oehler and Bill Cocker were thoroughly prepared to answer the "Who, What, and Where's" of sports. However the one-two punch of Evi Oehler and Ellen Erwin regained the points by rolling some lucky sevens. Rounding out the list of competitors was our fantastic photographer John McGavin, a clutch worker who was often left operating in the dark.

Following the rigors of competition, the staff spent a luxury week-end in New York City for the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Convention.

We feel that the above is conclusive proof of the mind destroying properties of layouts, cropping, captions, and identifications. That is why "You Bet Your Sanity" has never had a staff complete the competition without losing their minds.

Bursting onto the scene, Sports Co-Editor Bob Wilson prepares to redecorate a saloon.

Patriettes March in T.J. Exhibition

This year, as in the past, the Patriettes provided enjoyable entertainment during the halftimes. The number of members was decreased but this factor added to the group's unity.

Each home football game brought another performance by the Patriettes. The music, played by the marching band, included such tunes as "Never Can Say Goodbye" and the ever-popular "Hogan's Heros March". Football routines constituted the major part of the team's activity.

Leadership was provided by President Sandy Oppenheim and Vice-President Debbie Lumpkins. Home basketball routines were optional. The Patriettes also participated in a county marching exhibition at the Thomas Jefferson Community Center. This performance showed highlights of routines from the football season.

The Majorettes' objective at Yorktown is to provide entertainment during halftime intermissions along with the Patriettes. The Majorettes, however, are a smaller group and utilize batons in their routines. Practicing daily, these talented girls employ marching steps and interesting stunts in creating routines for their performances. Tracy Stilley was president of the club and organizes their activities. Special attractions include routines using fire batons.

Jody Rusher and Eric Hughes, former members of the Yorktown Gymnastics Team, came and helped the upcoming gymnasts. The main activity the club performs was producing the Gymnastics Circus. The circus is one of the most popular and widely attended assemblies of the year. The circus is one in a million, performed annually in the spring.

Forced to contend with another exceptionally warm winter, the Ski Club still worked hard to make this year's skiing season a success. Three trips were planned for this year. They went to Sugarbush, Vermont over Thanksgiving, Snowshoe, West Virginia over Christmas and Seven Springs, Penn. on George Washington's birthday. Though bad weather hurt the skiing, members were reported to have a good time anyway, which is all we can say in a yearbook.

Along with taking trips, the Ski Club also sponsors a Ski Team which competed in the All-Metropolitan Inter-High Team Races at Sugarbush. They also placed second out of ten competing teams with Paul Nassetta, George Heflin, and Jim Van Wormer taking 4th and 5th and 7th in individual competition. Liz Bridges placed third in the girl's division. The officers for the 1974-75 season were President Jim Van Wormer, Vice President Paul Nassetta, Secretary Mary Burnett and Treasurer Susie Oehler.

President Katie Couric and Vice-President Leslie Dickson encourage club members to correspond with Western State patients.

One of the most popular clubs and perhaps the most active one has been Western State. Working through the Northern Virginia Mental Health Association the club makes visits to the Geriatrics Ward at a hospital in Staunton, Va.

This eighty member club takes these trips approximately once every six weeks. Katie Couric, president, and Leslie Dickson, vice-president, provided the needed leadership to coordinate their various activities. Each visit, forty members bake goods and take gifts to their individually assigned patients. They sing, play assorted games, and participate in holiday activities. Between visits some members correspond with the patients.

Financed by past contributors, Western State ran into difficulty funding the trips which cost $165 a piece. A drive held in February helped in this formidable task. This service-minded group undoubtedly provided much comfort and companionship to these elder persons in Staunton.

The Distributive Education Clubs of America, or D.E.C.A. as it is called by its followers, enlists members from D.E. classes. Students of D.E. receive two credits, one for classwork and the second being awarded for employment. Mark Rosenbaum, the President, was also the Vice-President of the D.E.C.A. chapter in the state of Virginia. This year D.E.C.A. has been involved in various civic projects ranging from a recycled to collecting for muscular dystrophy. To keep everyone happy and content, D.E. also had luncheons with local businessmen.

Nancy Shepard, Cathy McAuliffe and other D.E.C.A. members discuss upcoming events on the club's calendar.

Mark Rosenbaum hands over donations to one of the charities that Junior Civitan supports.

The Junior Civitan Club at Yorktown has been consistently active and this was the case in 1974 and 1975. One of the many charitable projects that this worthwhile club participated in was generously donating money to the NARC, National Association for Retarded Children.

This civic group has had many other helpful activities that they have sponsored. Helping to decorate the newly remodeled Arlington Hospital especially at holiday seasons has been an important function of its creative membership. Their community services were much appreciated by the Yorktown's core of school bus drivers when this group baked them cookies. Cooperating with school, administration, parent and public organizations is one of their prime objectives.

The officers of this group have served the club well by organizing these various activities so that each member could contribute more effectively. They were as follows: President, Laura Adams; Vice President, Malinda Evans; Treasurer, Elaine Corum; Secretary, Denise Carpenter; Historian, Bob Koth. These members made it a successful year for Junior Civitan.

Kappa Aids No. Va. Mental Health Assoc.

Kappa Officers say Hello — they are; Barbara Beckmeyer, Karen Cooper, Cristy Binford, Elain Clinginpeel, Diane Baxter, Sidney Andrews, Tracy Stilley, and Donna McHugh.

Contrary to what one might think by viewing these “caught-on-the-sly” Kappa candids, Kappa Service Club has had a very constructive year in executing their various activities. Here at school, the club sponsors the J.V. and Varsity Cross Country, Wrestling, and Tennis teams. The Kappa girls make posters and otherwise promote the meets for the teams along with holding a team dinner for the members.

For the community, Kappa Service Club sells fruit cake during the year in conjunction with the Arlington chapter of the Civitan Club. The profits from sales go to aiding the mentally retarded. The girls also help the retarded by working with the Northern Virginia Training Center. This is a state institution for the help and training of the mentally retarded.

The officers of this active and concerned service organization were President Donna McHugh, Vice President Lara Mehr, Recording Secretary Cindy Birch, Corresponding Secretary Suzzette Haynie, and Treasurer Barbara Beckmeyer.

Instead of presenting President Donna McHugh with the usual gold watch, Kappa members think of a more fitting end to their year of fun and games.

Delta Service Club with President Lisa Schultz, has taken part in a wide variety of activities this year. During the Christmas season Club members were kept on their toes, for they sponsored a family and provided them with food, clothes and entertainment. They also visited Arlington Hospital and brightened Christmas for the patients by singing Christmas carols. In addition the club spent their time and efforts sponsoring the Gymnastics team. It was another productive and enjoyable year for Delta Service Club.

Dottie Olsen paints signs supporting the Gymnastics Team in their meets.

Sigma Service Club is another school and community concerned organization in Yorktown. The group is sponsored by Ms. Boesch, an English teacher.

A unique feature of this club is the group of four or five boys who are their "Big Brothers". They all support a child named Judith in the Phillipines. In addition to the several skating parties the club had, they ran the concession stand at the football games. This provides Sigma with their needed funds for their various activities. All in all, 1974-75 was a very good year.

Zeta Service Club, headed by Laura Stubbing, participated in a wide variety of activities. In the fall, Zeta supported the Varsity Football teams. This included pinning locker signs on players lockers and sponsoring a turkey dinner for the team. In addition, they contributed their services by helping Crew put on a spaghetti dinner to raise money for oars. Throughout the school year, Zeta was involved in such activities as the Variety Show, bake sales, and the March of Dimes Campaign.

Zeta also supported an underprivileged family in South Arlington, a little girl overseas and worked with autistic children on Saturdays.

The sole survivor of a once thriving race of male service clubs, the Key Club had another very active year.

The popular Monday night meetings featured discussions of upcoming club activities and a variety of games and activities, like shouting contests, desk throwing contests, and room redecorating contests.

The Key Club worked on several fund raising activities throughout the year. It participated in the March of Dimes campaign, the Epilepsy Walk-a-thon, and the Salvation Army's canned food drive at Christmas. They also sponsored the ever-popular pancake breakfast to raise money for Children's Hospital.

John McGavin, treasurer of Key Club, flashes his famous Hollywood smile but President Jim Skarin and Secretary John Groom seem unimpressed.

Keyette officers Kim Mootz, Laurie Bittenbring, Linda Holton, and Becky Marsh check their calendar for the upcoming events.

Another typical school year found the Keyettes busy, busy, busy as usual. Beginning their activities before the start of school, Keyettes sponsored a Newcomers Tea for students new to the area. Soon after, they joined with brother Key Club again to sponsor the pancake breakfast.

Keyettes were especially active during "Spirit Week". They sponsored various activity days such as "Hick Day" "Boys be Nice to Girls Day," and so forth. In addition, they sold balloons at the W-L football game. Also in the field of sports, Keyettes supported Winter and Spring track.

Keyettes came through for SFAC this year by helping on the Oktoberfest and working on Variety Show act.

Holiday seasons were celebrated by the Keyettes as they variously sang Christmas Carols for Walter Reed patients and baked cookies for the custodians at Christmas time. During February they sold Valentines and heralded springs arrival by selling donut holes and daffodils.

The Keyettes were led this year by Linda Holten. The sponsor was Linda Rosen.

Blood rushes to Stellae members' heads at another thrilling meeting.

Stellae combined tradition with innovation and service with pleasure for another productive year. Though a busy service club, they did not let the burden of activities prevent them from having a good time.

Traditional Stellae support for the soccer team was expanded this year to include the First Annual Stellae versus the soccer team match. Stellae lost 6 to 3. Though many rule changes were puzzling to participants, especially the soccer team members, the game proved to be a success. Charged with student support for the team were Kathy Brown and Tammy Fast. They supervised the making of signs for halls and lockers and coordinated the end of the season lasagna dinner.

Stellae began a new project this year by supporting Girls' Basketball and Gymnastics. Members feel that the Girls' teams deserve the support, if not the budget, of their male counter-parts.

The club added to school spirit in general by creating posters for "Spirit Week". It also got together an act for the annual football pep rally, created its fabulous Teacher-of-the-Month bulletin board and took part in the WEAM school literacy (read "spirit") contest.

Along with promoting service activities, Stellae also sponsored a number of social functions for its members. Monthly potluck suppers, two initiations, and trips to restaurants contributed to the club's unity. After press-time, the club plans picnics, bike trips, and a pilgrimage to Yorktown's seaside Mecca, Ocean City.

Proving once again that Stellae always stacks up, members form a pyramid.

T.V. Lab Produces Show For WNVN

Similar to Yearbook and Newspaper, T.V. Lab is a one period non-credit course for students interested in its specialized subject area. The Lab was established in 1968 under the direction of Ray Vanderbilt. Vanderbilt's successor, Tim Jecko, is now in charge of the project.

T.V. Lab is designed to teach participants all the aspects of TV studio operation. Included are instruction in camera operation, lighting, TV acting, and studio management. This knowledge is applied to T.V. Lab projects around the school. The Lab taped all home basketball games and wrestling matches so that the team members could see themselves in action and thereby improve their play. They also produced the radio heard at lunch and taped the Winter Festival.

The T.V. Lab annually produces a special show for airing on WNVN. In addition, they worked on a pilot for a commercial to test whether it would televise successfully.

Yorktown is a richer school academically for having the T.V. Lab and its equipment.

Working through difficult classical compositions, Madrigal's male music makers wish they could get Bach to basics.

Early morning rehearsals forced Madrigals to learn singing in their sleep as Lizann Peyton and Madeleine Estabrook show.

The Madrigals, that select group of Yorktown vocalists, sang their way into the hearts of Yorktown's music lovers for another year. Rehearsals were rigorous, taking place at seven in the morning from three to five times a week. Membership is through audition before Director AnnLee Knobloch and members of the previous year's Madrigals.

Aside from the concerts presented at Yorktown, the Madrigals performed at many women's clubs and churches this year. They also performed at the downtown Woodward and Lothrop over Christmas, one of the rare times they are paid for their work.

In addition, the Madrigals represented Yorktown at the Arlington County High School Orchestra and Choral Festival held here during February. Debbie Zirkle headed the Madrigals this year. Kathy Harshbarger was Vice President.

TNC Sounds Like Dynamite

Now in their fourth successful year at Yorktown, the Thursday Night Crowd continues to produce a foot-stomping sound that pleases both student audiences during school hours, and the audiences at their many popular nighttime performances. Under the direction of Mr. Ramsdell, the Thursday Night Crowd is an extracurricular group that also performs with the Jazz Lab at concerts, as well as has participated in the Tri State competition at Madison College. The group is a part of, and is supported by the Music Department of Yorktown. They hold their practices on Wednesday afternoons and, of course, on Thursday nights.

The bass guitar and drum help the Thursday Night Crowd to create that fabulous T.N.C. beat.

Blowing their way to fame and glory, Dan Aragona, John Dick, and Mike Jolkovski lead The Thursday Night Crowd members in a tune.

A regular Sax Fifth Avenue of musical talent, the Jazz Lab Band produced its finest music in years.

Everyday fifth period, one could hear the Jazz Lab rocking out in the auditorium. A band of avid followers also attended these concerts as the group practiced for their many performances. This talented group is sponsored by Mr. Ramsdell. Dean McCall assumed the presidential responsibilities while also backing the band with a powerful beat.

Jazz Lab participated in many concerts and clinics this year. These included the George C. Marshall Jazz Festival, the Langley Jazz Festival and the Madison College Tri-State Contest. Bands from Maryland, West Virginia competed in this latter festival. An interesting addition to the Jazz Lab Band was a vocal group called "The Friends." Kathy Harshbarger, Madeleine Estabrook Debbie Zirkly and Lisa Boren expanded the Lab's musical capabilities in a unique way for a high school band.

The support of students and parents was invaluable to Jazz Lab. A combination of this and outstanding musical abilities have made this year's Jazz Lab Band the most successful yet.

Orchestra Has Winning Season

Debbie Baxter and Nancy Toy explore the musical potential of the violin while other Orchestra members join in.

The Orchestra, conducted by Miss Ann Lee Knobloch, has participated in many concerts throughout the year. In addition to the annual Fall, Winter, and Spring Concerts at Yorktown, they entered the District XII Band-Orchestra Festival on March 7. Another exciting event for the group was the bi-annual Arlington County High School Orchestra-Choir Festival hosted by Yorktown on February 13. The officers of the Orchestra were: Jeff Crigler, President; Debbie Zirkle, Vice President; Sara Peyton, Sec.-Treas.; and Karl Burkett and Bill Kennon, Librarians. List of Members: Violin — Cheryl Agris, Lisa Overton, Sara Peyton, Karl Burkett, Gini Young, Jana Christensen, Kim McKenzie; Viola — Diane Baxter, Nancy Toy, Bill Kennon, Mary Stubbing; Violoncello — Andy Mosholder, Jim Lester, Charles Monroe; Bass Viol — Bruce Baxter; Piano — Debbie Zirkle; Flute — Lizann Peyton, Chris Hughes, Richard Smith, Maria Vahle; Oboe — Suzanne Williams; Clarinet — Earl Shaffer, Dan Aragona, Jim Fishbein, Mike Jolkovski; Bass Clarinet — Walt Mazan; Bassoon — Ken Cook; French Horn — Jeff Crigler, Jim Lorenz, Frank McIntosh, Leon Young; Trumpet — Scott Fitzpatrick, Eric Ogden, Phil King; Trombone — Ron Backus, Hugh McGuire, Richard Lofgren; Tuba — Jim Barker; Percussion — Walt Leathers, John Teunis, Paul Marotta.

The Orchestra practices seventh periods two or three days a week.

Vocational Industrial Club of America (VICA) is an offspring of the Vocational Education Program at Yorktown. As such, it is closely associated with a similar club, Industrial Cooperative Training. Both clubs are sponsored by Mr. William Beals.

Vocational Education involves a class period during the day. In addition, one must have an afternoon job to participate in the program. This job need not necessarily correspond to the vocational skill being studied, but it does whenever possible.

Students in the Vocational Industrial Club of America work in an atmosphere of liberal instruction. They set their own goals and are expected to meet their deadlines for work completion. The Vocational Industrial Club of America is another activity which adds to Yorktown's diversified educational atmosphere.

VOT Members Prepare for Job World

The Vocational Office Training Program provides students with an opportunity to learn office skills in the classroom and to get office experience in the afternoons.

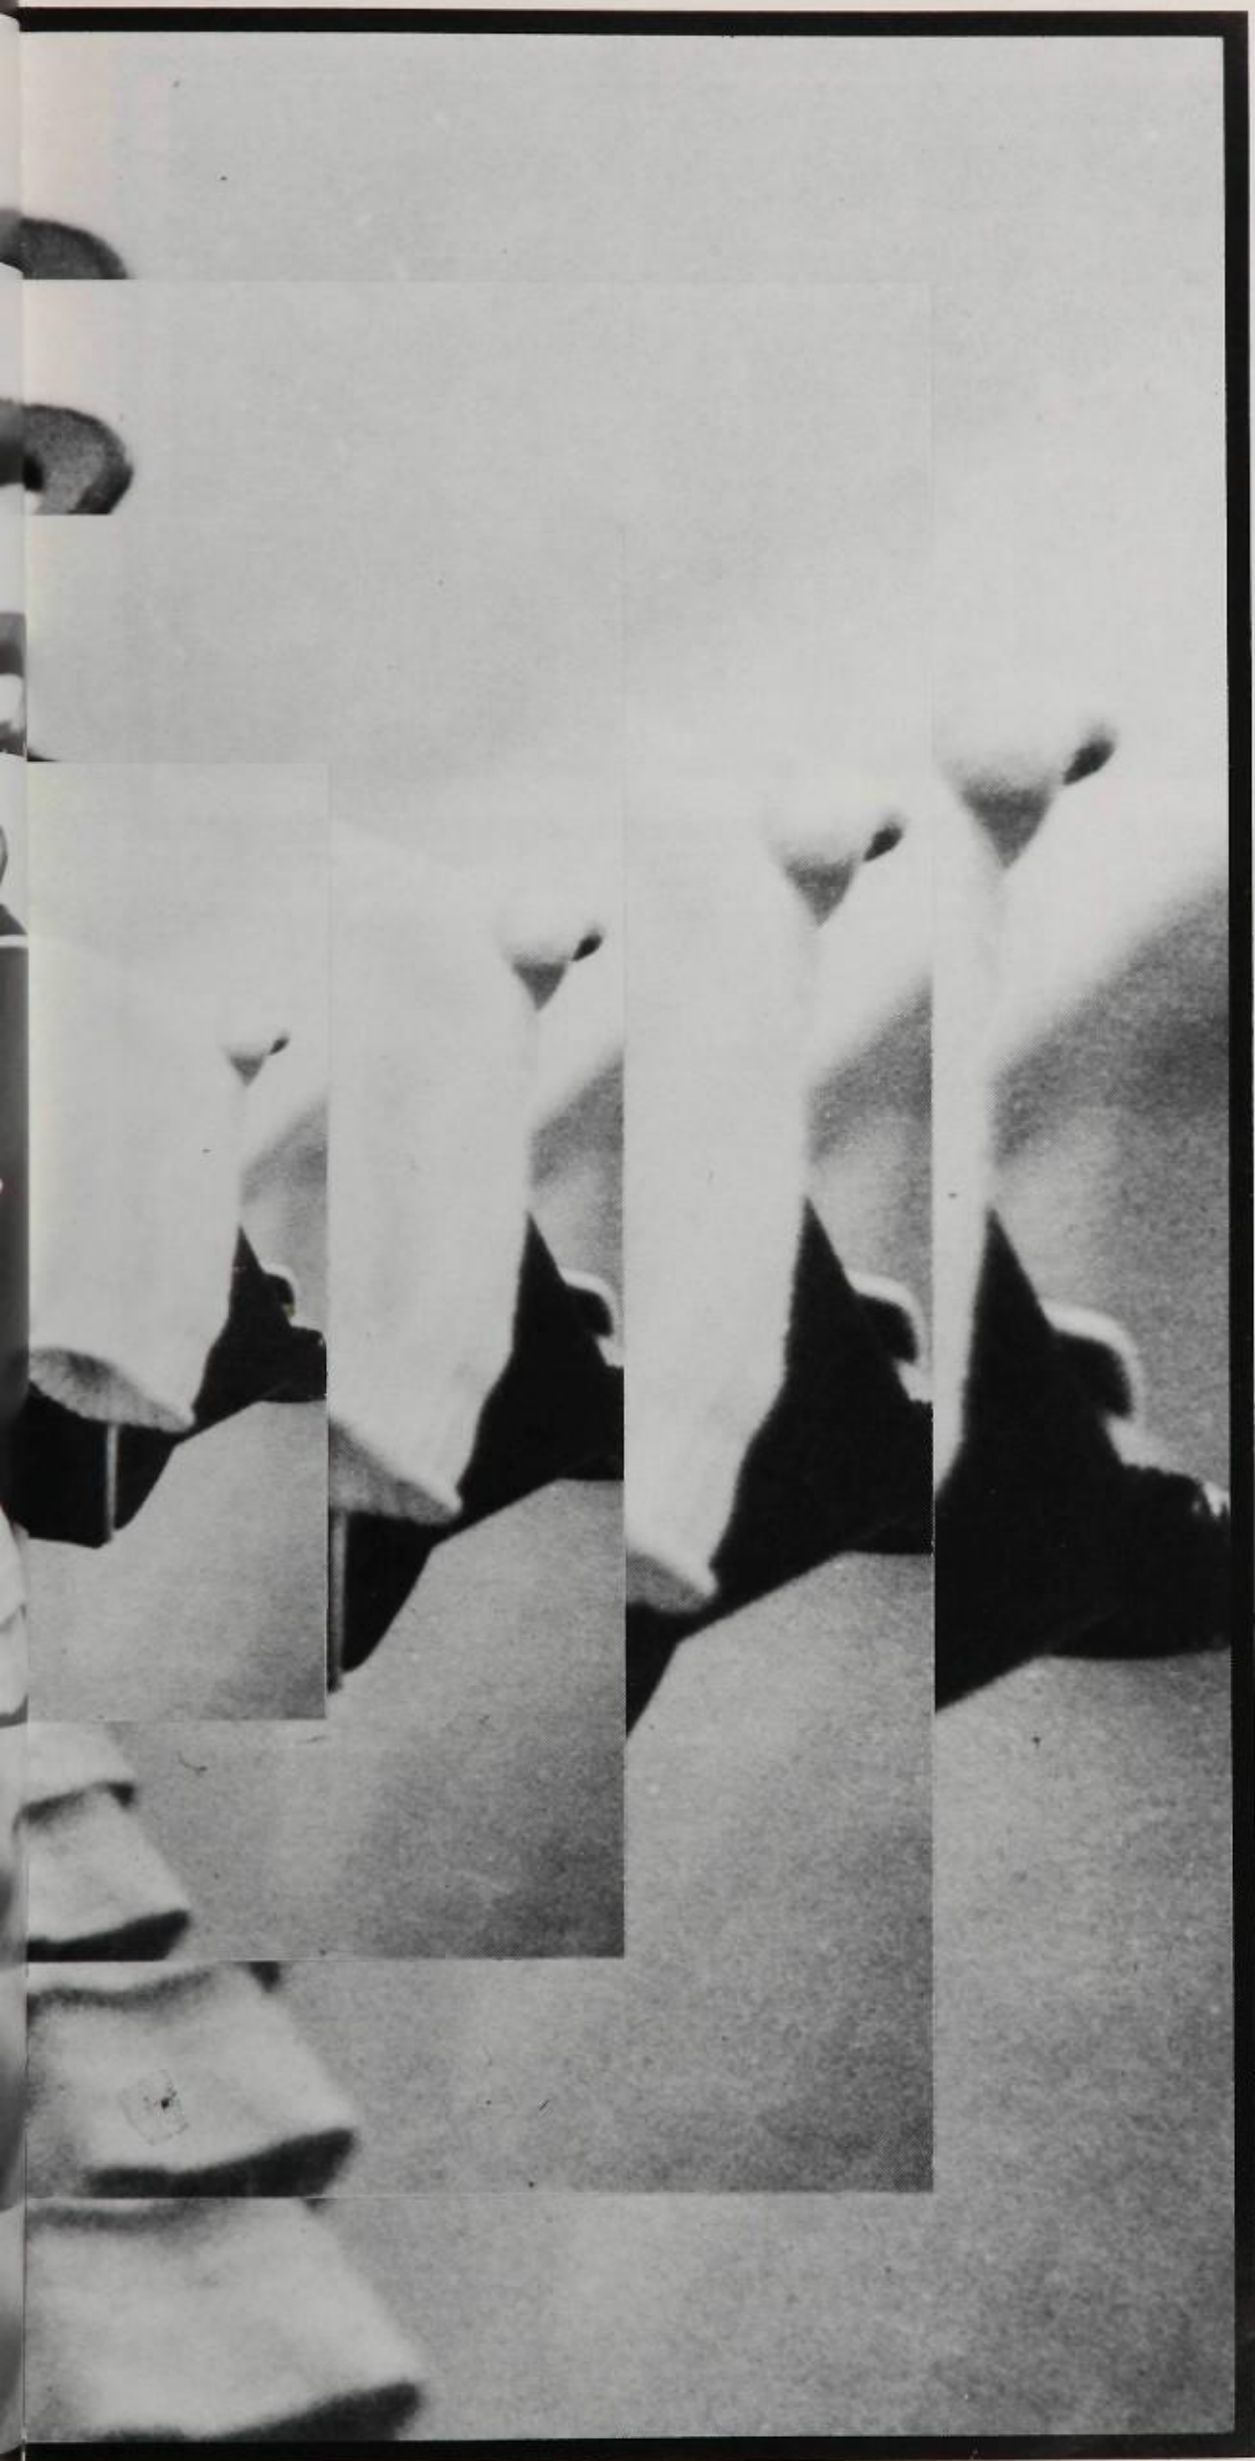

The purpose of the Vocational Office Training Club is to promote the Program and to provide classroom time for extra-curricular activities. They have held a VOT breakfast, an employer-appreciation luncheon, made Christmas booties, and held money-making projects during the school year.

Coach Jesse Meeks commented on the success of this year's football team. "A great deal of success is due to the leadership of the two captains, Scott Harlan and Neel Smith." The offense was able to pass over 40% of the time due to the outstanding passing arms of quarterback Bruce Anderson and Alan Drew. On the receiving end was leading ground gainer Mike Brown, all-regional tight end Ron Borders, and the sure hands of Billy Cocker. The ground game was controlled by leading scorer Scott Harlan, with 12 touchdowns, and Jack Shafran. Bill Scott, All-District tackle, was responsible for many of the big holes in the defensive line.

"The defense was lead by All-Region Gary Pinkett. Billy Steed, Don Morris, and Sam Hondros should also be given credit for their outstanding defensive ability."

The main goal for the team has been a winning season, which was accomplished with a record of 6 and 4. Yorktown had the strongest offensive in the Great Falls District, outscoring opponents by 64 points.

Sam Hondros (83) ambles in as an unidentified Patriot flies through the air with the greatest of ease.

Team Wins Tourney In Sudden Death

This year's varsity soccer team was credited with an 8-4-4 season's record. The team's major weakness this year was experience. It had only nine returning players from last year's thirty four man squad. Nonetheless, the team overcame this obstacle, and was able to fill the vacated spots left by last year's graduating seniors.

The strength of this year's team was a offense led by returning lettermen Tim Morrison, Chong Lee, Alex Moreno, and goalie Mike Ray. These four individuals constantly foiled the scoring opportunities of opponents.

The Patriots once again got to the finals of the Yorktown Invitational Soccer Tournament. They defeated Herndon and Wakefield to advance to the finals against W-L.

The Championship game was purely a defensive struggle, with no scoring during the first half. Shortly after the second half began, W-L put in a shot on goal to take a 1-0 lead. With 10 minutes left in the final half, Yorktown capitalized on a penalty shot by Kelly Bates. The score remained the same through the rest of regulation time. The game then went into two 5 minute overtime periods. Neither of which broke the 1-1. The teams then went into sudden death penalty shots. Yorktown squeezed out in the end, 5 goals to 4 for the victory.

J.V. Soccer Finishes With 10-3-1 Record

After an excellent season and a record of 8-3-1, the junior varsity soccer team is looking forward to next year.

The squad should do just as well next year as they have done this year. Almost half the team will be returning to play on the J.V. team next year. Many good sophomores will be around next year to play as juniors on the J.V. This will help to insure the junior varsity with a strong squad in 1975.

Of all the players Hugo Pineda's ability stood out the strongest. Despite having come out for the team late in the season, Pineda scored the most goals per game of any Yorktown J.V. player. Other outstanding players were captains Paul Yeomans and Steve Driebe.

The singles players were consistently victorious in their matches, with their formidable contributors being Leslie and Mary Burnett. Kathy Golden was playing in the number three position.

The doubles team was aided by several sophomores, Susan Bickley, Bobbi Kalbfleisch, and Marian Hawthorne. Leslie and Mary Burnett went to the District Tournament for singles and placed 2nd and 4th respectively.

Overcoming a nine year jinx, this year's Cross Country Team had a winning season. Coached by Mr. Charles Harris, the team went to the District Meet for the first time since 1965.

The team chose John Davis as their captain. David Taylor was also recognized for his leadership abilities. The final team record was 6-5 with impressive wins in the Wakefield and Herndon meets. David Baldwin proved to be the most outstanding member on the team.

District results showed Yorktown's Cross Country Team placing fourth. Dick Baldwin later went on to place 16th in the Regional meet while the team placed 12th. This season the team beat out many past team records.

Yorktown's Varsity Basketball team, behind the efforts of new head coach Jim Hill, had their most successful year in the history of the school. The previous school record of twelve victories in a season was surpassed easily this year as the scrappy cagers racked up a total of fifteen wins. The team of 1970 previously held the winning percentage record of .611. That record was also shattered as this year's squad achieved a winning percentage of .750.

The record-breaking club prided themselves on their tenacious, ball-hawking defense. As a result Yorktown's defense ranked second in the entire Northern Region. Their combative play held opponents to an average of just 55.9 points per game. The five Patriot guards were inserted into the game occasionally for defensive purposes. Because of their extreme aggressiveness this group earned the epithet of "the alley cats".

The Pats got off to a slow start, winning only three of their first seven before the Christmas break. But then the tide turned. In the month of January the squad won a region high of nine straight games. The scoring, lead by Joe Golden's 14.1 average was very balanced, but particularly so during the nine game winning streak. Their balanced attack baffled opponents because it prevented opposing teams for keying on one player. As a result, each of the starting five was high scorer in at least one game.

Another Yorktown forte, rebounding, was lead by forwards Ernie Sanders and Hal Taylor and center Mike Ray. The trio was so tough that they out rebounded every team they faced. Starting guards and co-captains Rusty Shaw and Joe Golden provided the Patriots with one of the finest backcourts in the region. John McGavin, Brian Haggerty and Mike Brown rounded out what many believed to be the finest crop of guards in the area. Backing up Ernie, Hal and Mike were the likes of young Pete Mandanis, Dennis Smith and Jeff Hartman.

Much of this year's success was attributed to the coaching of Jim Hill, who was called back to duty because of the recent destaffing at Yorktown. Assisting Mr. Hill in the coaching department were Bob Goens and Scout Bill White. Greg Kirchener took care of the trainers' duties while Joe Reisinger filled in on the managerial tasks.

A final tribute to the team's success was its ranking by the Post as the twentieth best team in the metro area.

Joe Golden sticks his tongue out against a Madison player while shooting a perfect form jumper.

Forward Ernie Sanders, formerly of Michigan State, fires in another Houdini shot against Herndon.

Rusty Shaw drives to the hoop instead of shooting his famous "Chenier" jumper.

In district tournament the Pats earned the second seed and played cross-town rival Washington-Lee for the third time this year. The Generals were obviously out-classed as the smarter, quicker, and stronger Patriots completely blew them off the court 64-41. Marshall proved to be a tougher opponent in the semi-finals. Good shooting by Rusty Shaw and Ernie Sanders, tough defense by Joe Golden, and rebound domination provided by Mike Ray and Hal Taylor put the B-ballers on top 63-57. In the tourney final Yorktown gave Madison their toughest fight of the year but lost in the final minute 67-64.

The quarterfinals of the regionals pitted the Big Blue Machine against the powerful Robinson Rams. The red-hot shooting of Joe Golden combined with the regular stingy defense of the Patriots kept them ahead almost the entire game. However Yorktown's inability at the foul line (2 for 8) in the fourth quarter proved fatal as the game ended 67-59.

The J.V. basketball team, under the tutelage of new head coach Jim Price, won the district championship and tournament with an over-all record of 18-5. The explosive J.V. team often wiped teams right off the court. Their wins included the 76-38 drubbing of Oakton, the 98-58 massacre at Madison, and the bombarding of Wakefield 80-46. The scoring department was lead by Tom Stout who broke the Yorktown J.V. scoring record. The other four starters, David Taylor, Greg Baird, David Williams and Russell Burke poured in many points themselves while holding their opponents to very few.

Mr. Price did quite well as a first year coach. He did an excellent job of developing his players so that they will be prepared for tougher varsity competition next year. Varsity Head Coach Jim Hill was the unanimous pick as Great Falls "Coach of the Year."

Girls' Basketball Premiers at Yorktown

A breakthrough in Varsity athletics, Yorktown sponsored a Girls' Basketball Team for the first time this year. The team, coached by Mr. Witcher Beverly and Ms. Nancy Raum, had a very successful season with a record of 8-4. Members were looking forward to three additional victories in the District and Regional Tournaments.

Sisters, Janet and Cathie Stivers served as co-captains as well as being the team's most valuable players. Participation also included center Suzy Sale and forwards Sheryl Meyer and Janet Stivers. Cathie Stivers, Linda Ross and Titi Deskins filled the guards positions.

Attendance at the games was unfortunately low despite extensive publicity sponsored by Stellae service club. The team also participated in the W-L pep rally held mid-year. Support will probably increase next year as students adjust to Girls' Varsity Sports at Yorktown.

Yorktown Wrestlers Win District Title

Harris, Barbi Kelley, Justin Chretien, Mark Edwards, Danny Davis, Dave McClure, Chris Foley, Scott Harlan, Steve Connell, Tracy Camp.

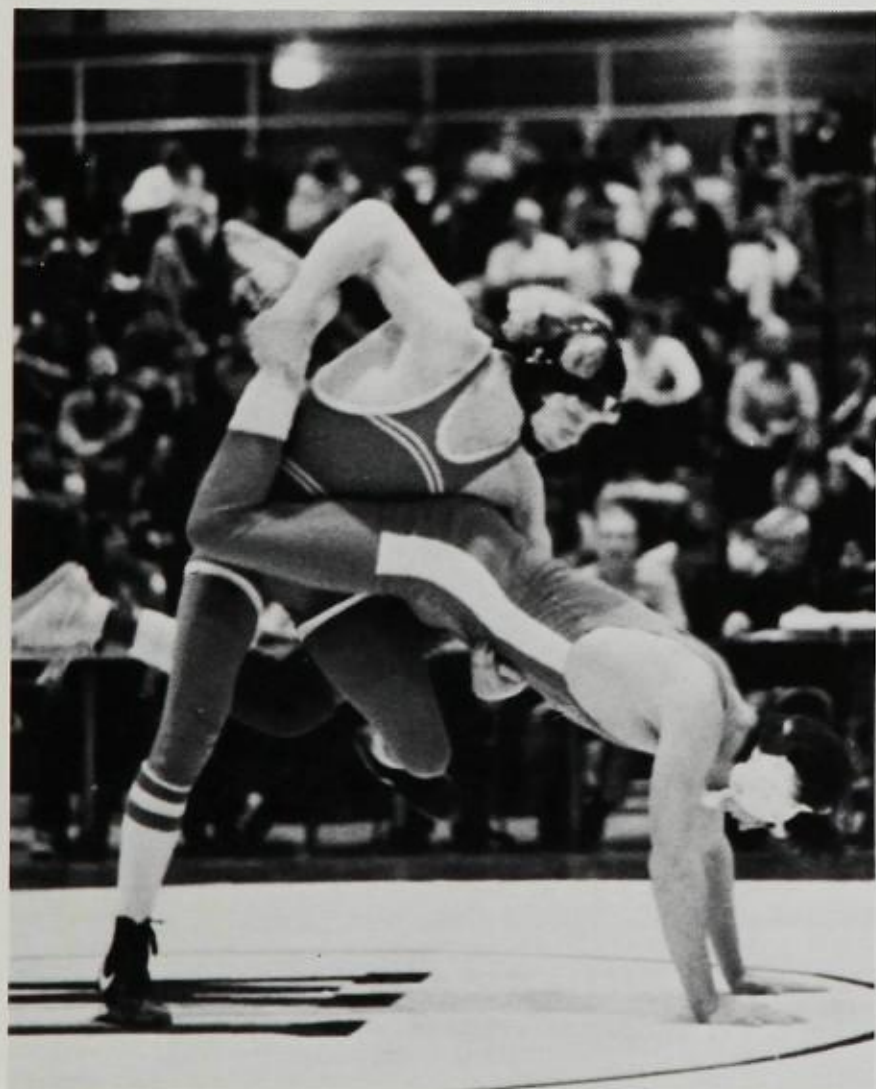

The 1974-5 Varsity Wrestlers finished first in the Great Falls District Tournament for the third consecutive year, despite being hampered by injuries, quitting, and a lack of depth in personnel. Overcoming these difficulties with hard work and patient coaching, the wrestlers managed to compile an outstanding 9-3 record, taking first in the district and seventh in the regionals. Dave Buchanan, David Greenwald, and Steve Connell placed first in the district. David Andrukonis, Crit Cook, and Justin Chretien took second; Scott Harlan placed fourth in the district. Rounding out the team with fine records were Paul Bardagiy, Hugh Donart, Mark Edwards, and Chris Foley. David Buchanan and David Greenwald took first and second in the regional tournament, respectively, earning the right to go to the State Tournament held in Richmond. Thanks to expert coaching by Mr. Charles Harris and Mr. Scott Brooks, who both maintained faith through the most trying times of the season, the wrestlers can expect to have another championship year next year with the return of six starters.

Justin Chretien, second in the district, overpowers his W-L opponent for a two point take down.

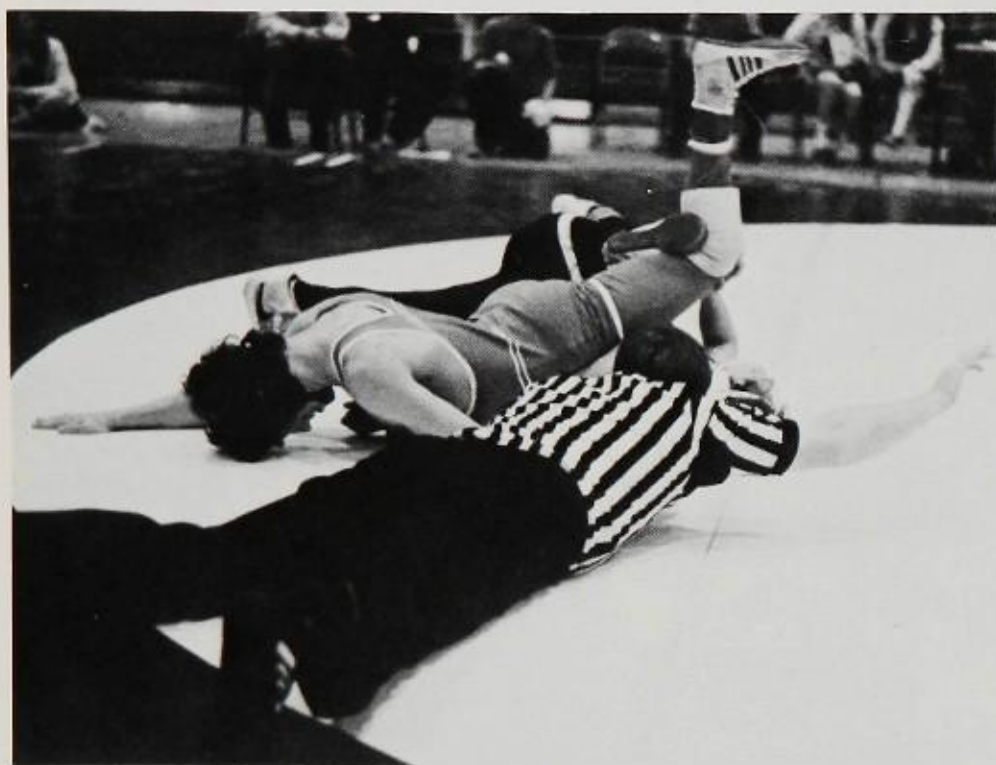

David Greenwald attempts to gain control of his opponent and of some more points to win his match.

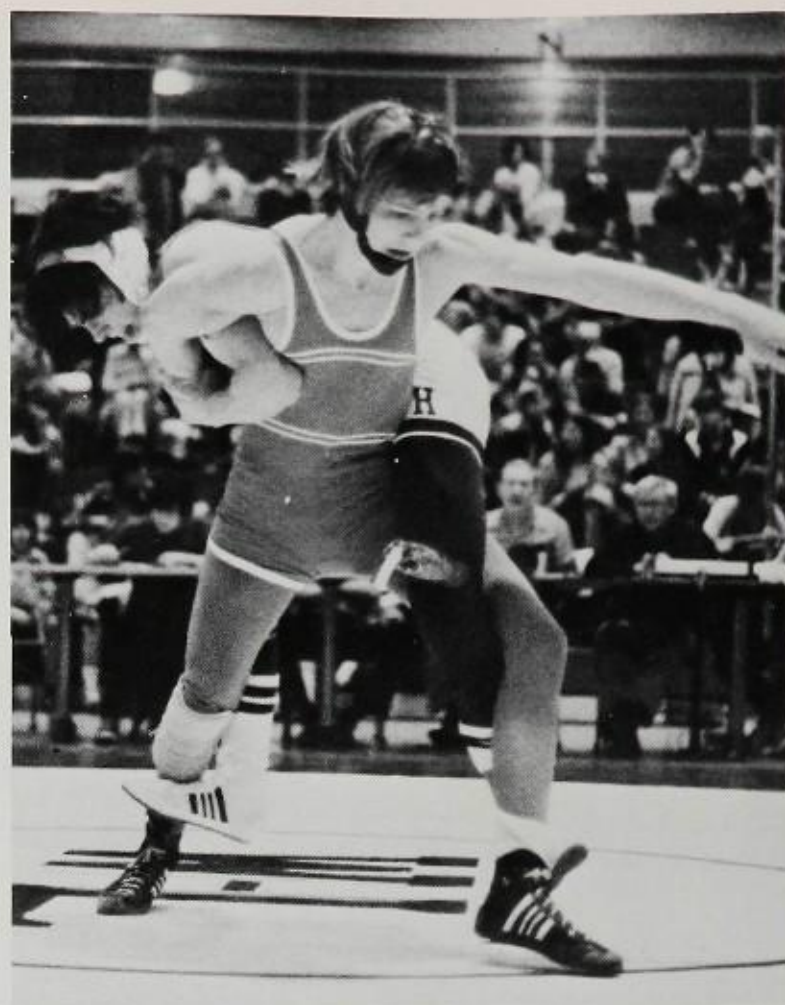

Steve Connell (first in district) contemplates what move to try next, as the referee makes himself comfortable.

Chris Foley drives his man into the mat and on his back for a three point near fall.

Crit Cook, (second in district) uses body leverage to put his man in a predicament. Seconds later he pinned.

David Andrukonis, (second in district) dumps an unwanted load onto the mat. He won the match by a decision.

Seniors Shoot Rifle Team To New Heights

In its second season of existence as a varsity sport, the Rifle Team followed up its impressive premiere season with an even more impressive one. Sporting a ten wins, two losses record, the team took second place in the district and with six consistent shooters had its best record ever.

Anchoring the team were four seniors, James Ramsey, the number 1 shooter with a 290 out of a possible 300 average score, Jim Henry and Kris Kuck interchanging positions at numbers 2 and 3, both with a 268 average, and John Lovell, the number 4 shooter with a 250 average. Rounding out the squad were Robert Cook, a sophomore, and Rodney Hart, a senior.

Their two losses came from two of their nemeses from last year, Robinson and Ft. Hunt. Ft. Hunt is one of the top teams in the area and possesses a phenomenal 1150 out of 1200 possible points average. Beyond their two losses the Patriots upended Landon and Ft. Belvoir Prep, two tough private schools, to highlight their season.

Most deserving of the title of most improved is Kris Kuck who improved enough to rise from fifth shooter last year to number two this year. Coach Beals attributes their success to a lot of individual practice and hard work. Those on the team believe that it is worth it.

Girls Gymnastics Has Outstanding Season

Nancy Baldwin executes a chasse as part of her balance beam routine.

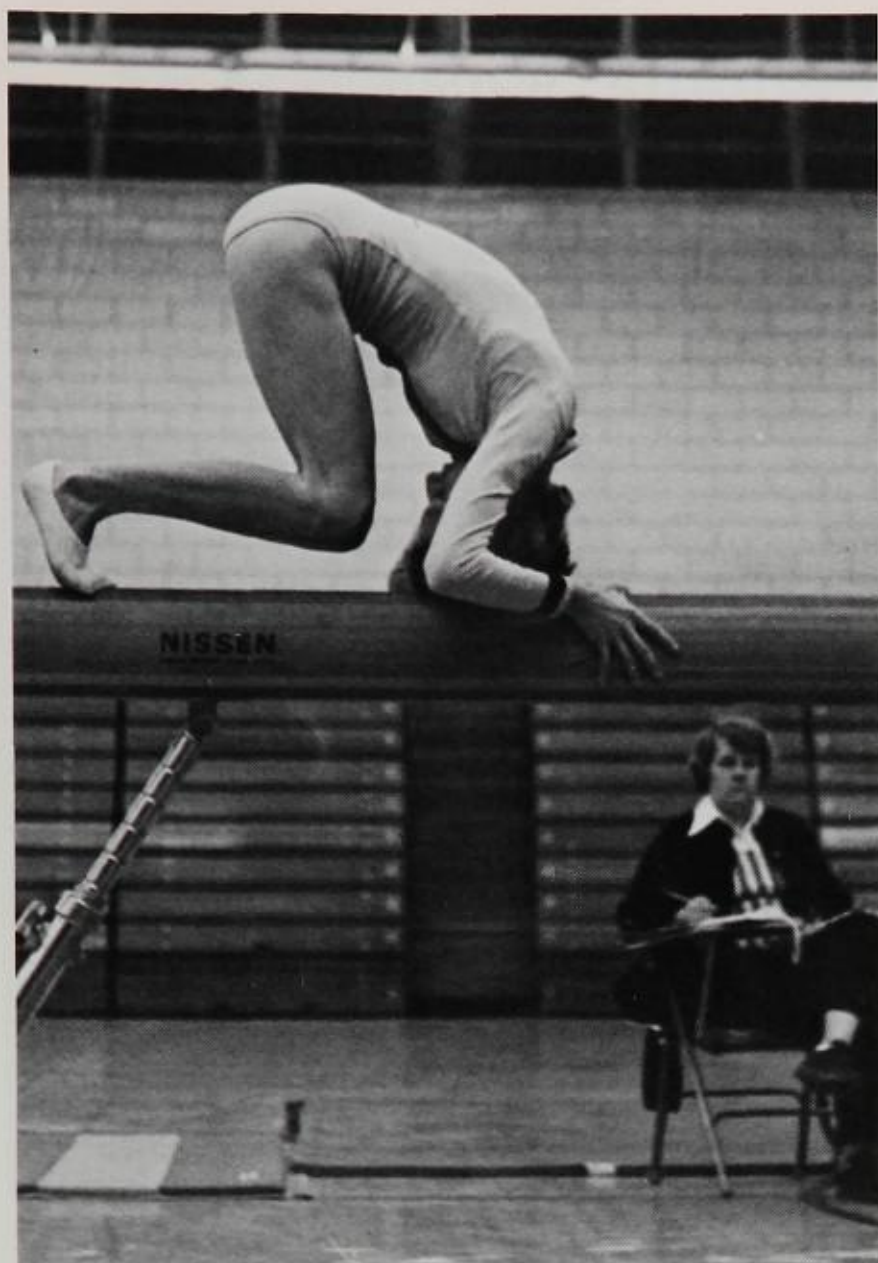

Able to vault tall horses at a single bound, super-gymnast Barbara Cherney performs at a meet.

Trying to impress a judge with her brains as well as her talent, an anonymous gymnast uses her head on the balance beam.

Tracy Hitt displays beauty, grace, and a nice pair of legs as she does her free-ex routine.

Laurie Nicholson, under the watchful eye of Ms. Smith swings into action as she performs a wrap-around on the uneven bars.

This year's Girls' Gymnastics Team Co-Captains, Barbara Cherney and Tracy Hitt led the group to four straight wins. The Tri-Meet proved to be somewhat less successful when the Patriots came in second to Langley.

The divisions in which these girls competed were floor exercise, balance beam, uneven parallel bars, vaulting, and all around. Each category is divided into two levels. The first level consists of a compulsory routine whereas the second level consists of individually created routines.

Floor-exercise is made up of tumbling and modern dance movements. Participants were Kim Via, Amy Andrews and Edi Skidmore. The second event, the balance beam, was performed by gymnasts Janet Raff and Connie Hoffman. Sandy Wells and Laurie Nicholson executed routines on the uneven parallel bars while Sandy also competed with Cathy Summit in vaulting.

The all around category consists of several team members competing in each of the above divisions. Participants in this event were Barbara Cherney, Tracy Hitt, Chris Hughes and Nancy Baldwin.

Under the direction of Coach Ardelia Smith the Girls' Gymnastics Team had a very successful year and an excellent record to prove it.

Gymnastics Has Rebuilding Season

Keats Nicoll holds a perfect pike position while performing on the parallel bars.

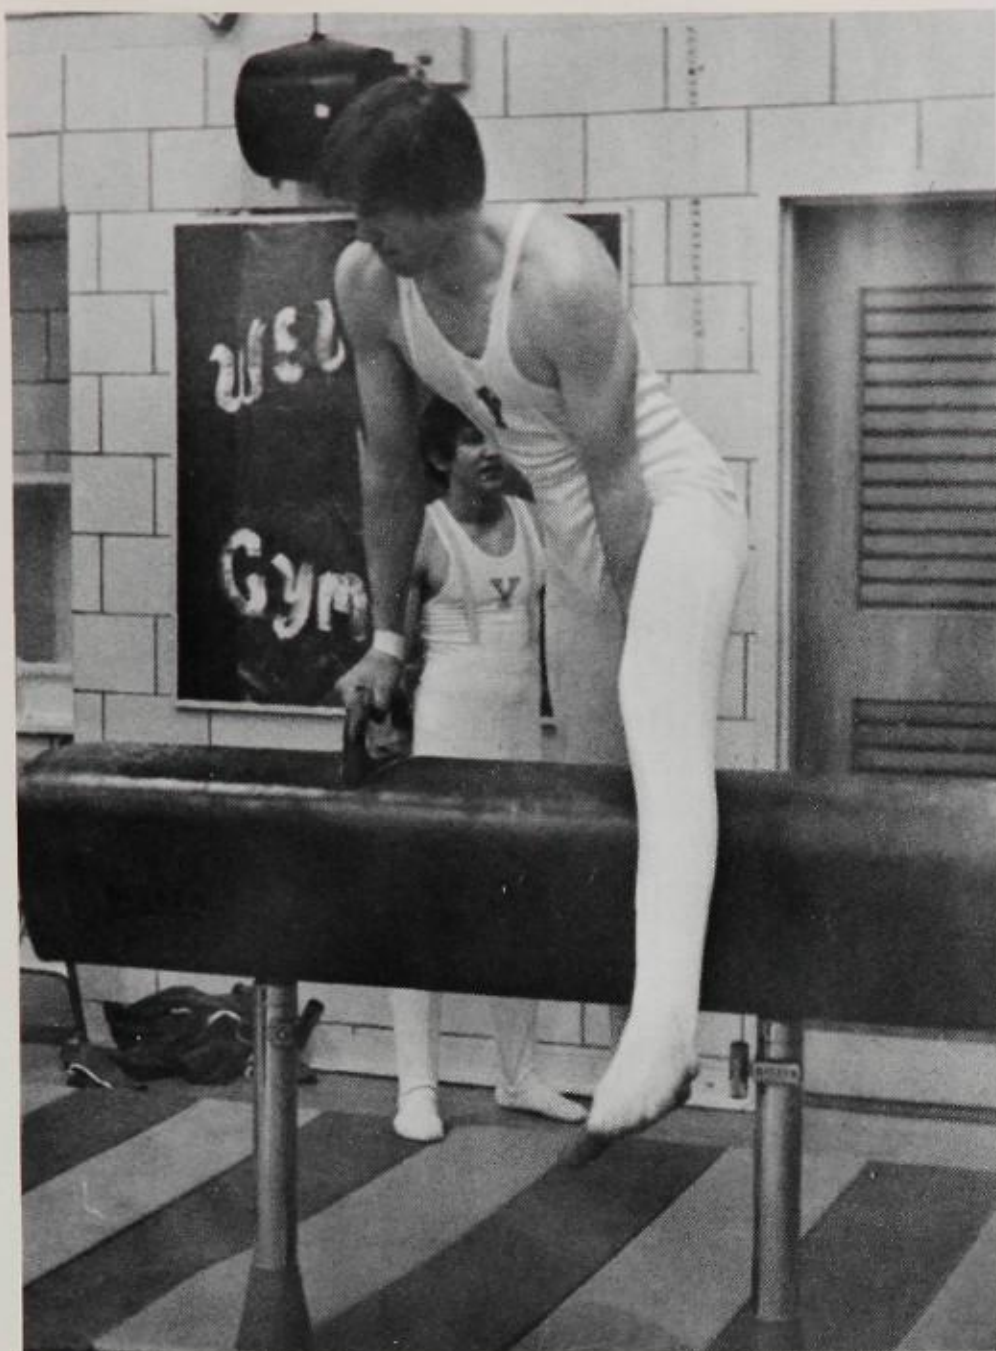

Returning veteran Paul Nary swings into action in his horizontal bar routine.

New to Yorktown this year, Kent Jordan straddles the horse like his Apaloosa in Idaho.

Executing a handstand on the parallel bars, this unidentifiable gymnast practices after school.

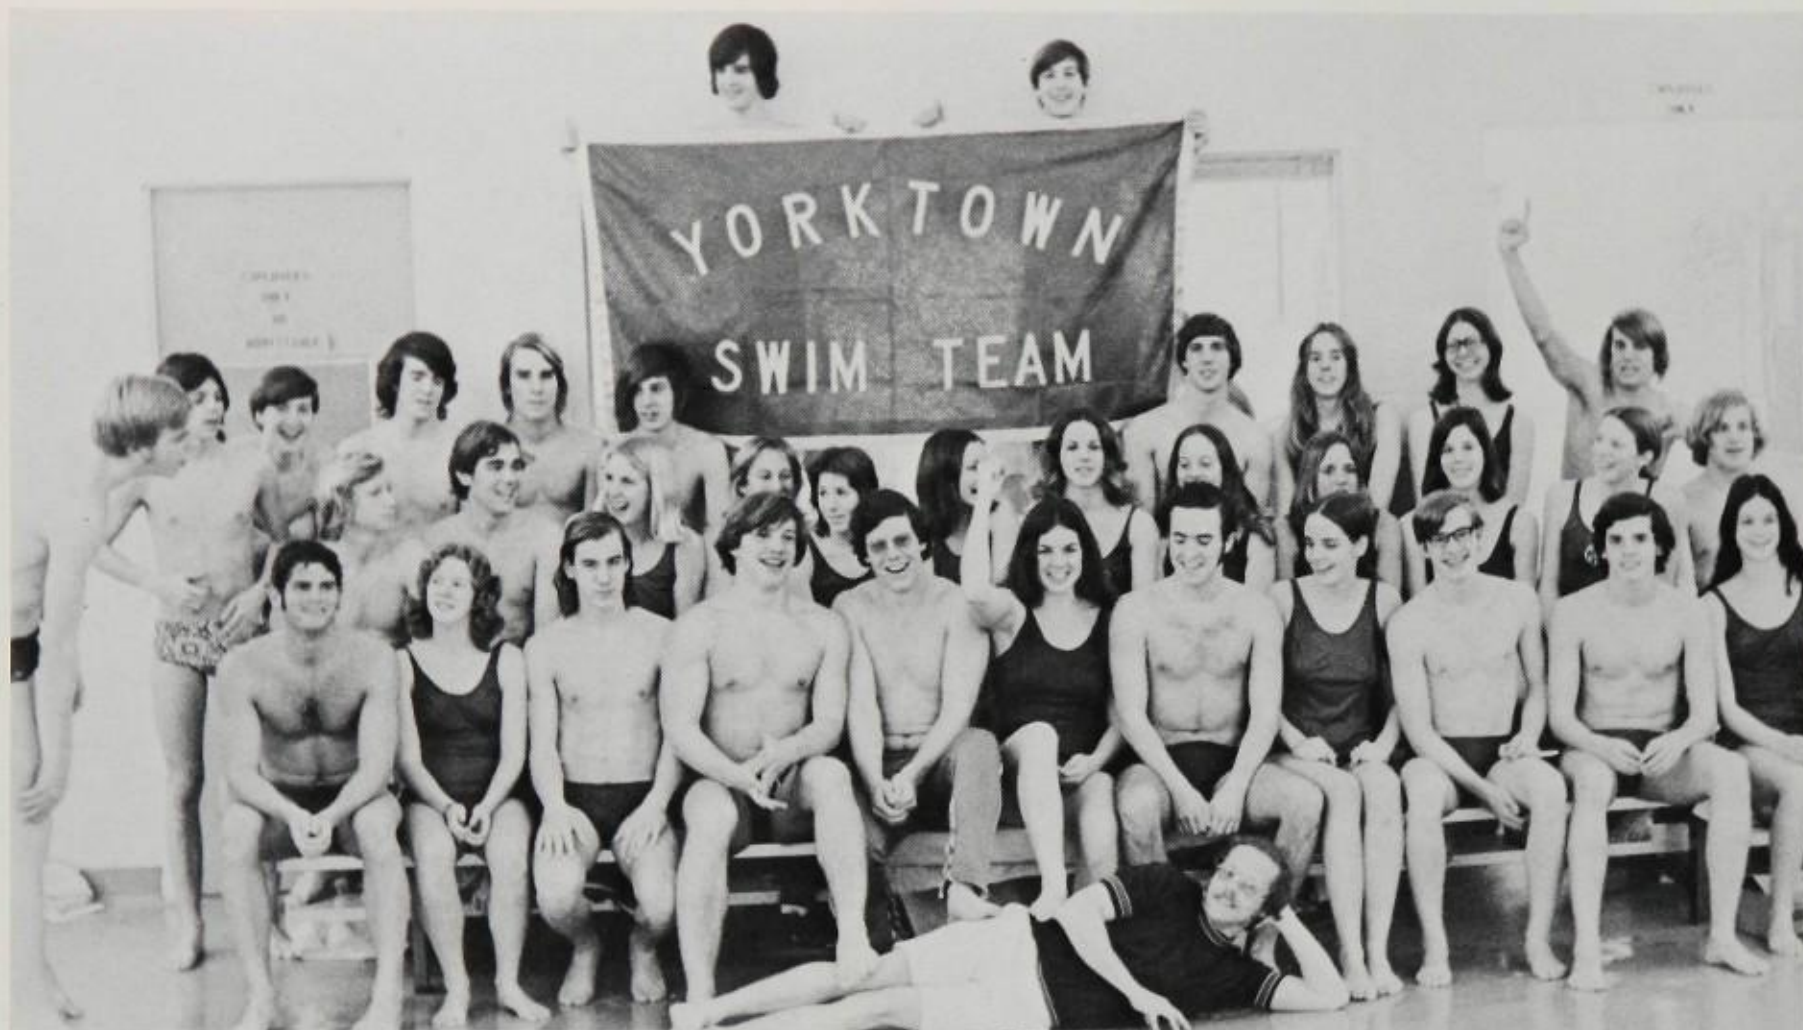

Coach Meeks hopes to make it to the regional meet even though many of the team members are new to gymnastics.

The gymnastics team hopes to be successful as last years team by advancing to the regional meets. This year's team is quite young, for the most part being comprised of juniors and sophomores.

Inexperience may therefore be a serious handicap in competition. The only returning team members are junior Tom Winkler and Senior Paul Nary. The events for gymnastics include vaulting, floor exercise, side horse, parallel bars, high bars, and rings. The Patriots have been working out quite hard in hopes of retaining their previous excellent team standing. Herndon is seen as their toughest opponent.

Swim Team Posts 8-1 Record; Best Ever

Coach Purcell checks team members' times with this statistician.

The 1974-75 swimming team had its most successful season in Yorktown's history. The combination of veteran seniors and juniors as well as strong sophomores jellied into a team that suffered only one defeat against O'Connell in a non-district meet.

While Coach Francis Purcell stressed long work-outs to build up strength and stamina, Coach Rod Uveges pushed form and technique. Brought together, this mixture made for a well balanced team.

The highlight of the season was the victory at the Regionals over twenty other teams. Spectacular performances were made by the whole team.

In specific competitions, sophomores Jeanne Dahnk, Marion Hawthorne, Connie Peterson and Carol Drewer put forth an exceptional effort and were in contention for an All-American Relay. The boy's hundred yard breast-stroke combination of Donnie Morris, Scott Hubal and Kent Bradshaw also gave an outstanding performance. Vallie Reynolds and Chris Peterson won many points in the girls' 50 free and 100 free. Divers Chris Mano, Bob Fields and Pat Askins were almost an automatic sweep. In addition, Beth Kane and Jeanne Dahnk dived well. Mary Ward, Joan Gilmore, Grace Ward, Nancy Leathers and Cindy Sehart were always there to chalk up points. Charlie Fisher, Bill McGuire, Ronnie Redfield, Joe Wilson and Peter Romness consistently finished with good times and helped the team post its spectacular 8-1 record.

Winter Track Qualifies Ten For Regionals.

This year's Winter Track team compiled its best season in three years against very stiff competition. Competing against the likes of T.C. Williams, Episcopos, Wakefield, and W-L, the Harriers compiled a 2-3 record. Highlighting the season was the defeat of W-L by a score of 57-47 and in the process qualifying ten team members for the Regional contest at Robinson High School. These were: Bill Scott in the Shot Put, Jeff Hyde in the Long Jump and 1000 yard run, Dean Nettles in the 60 yard high hurdles, Tom Faris in the 50 and 300 yard dashes, Jim Ott in the 50 yard dash, Ben Bohannon and Bob Graves in the 600 yard dash, Tom Graves in the mile and Dick Baldwin in the two mile. In addition, the mile relay team, composed of Bob Graves, Ben Bohannon, Mike Timpane, and Tom Faris, recorded the best time in the region and is given a good chance to capture both the regional and State titles. Coach Dave Gebhardt has built a competent team mainly composed of juniors and sophomores and has reactivated the pole vault, an event that was dormant for many years at Yorktown. This season also set three new school records; Tom Faris in the 300 yard dash, Bob Graves in the 600 yard run and Jeff Hyde in the 1000 yard run. So overall the winter track team fared pretty well.

Realizing that the broad jump pit is actually a box of kitty litter, Bob Graves stays airborne.

Dick Baldwin outdistances an unknown W-L runner to win the mile run as Jeff Hyde follows.

Harriers Racing Along To Good Season

The Yorktown Varsity Spring Track Team shows its school spirit as they pose in the traditional Yorktown "Y".

Muscleman Dennis Smith puts some effort behind his shot.

Sure that he'll never experience half the tortures he regularly puts his team through, Coach Gebhardt smirks at his slave-driven athletes.

Realizing that the late bell has rung for their next period team members do some conditioning on their way to class.

The Spring Track Team is looking forward to what could be its best season ever. With the addition of two coaches and a number of fine athletes to the sixth best winter team in the region, hopes are indeed high.

Coach Gebhardt and his assistants, Coaches Jeter and Brooks, are dividing the load of training equally among them. Mr. Gebhardt is in charge of distance runners. In the distance runs, there are two returning state competitors, Jeff Hyde (6th in the 1000) and Dick Baldwin (8th in the two mile). In addition there are David Taylor, a mile specialist, Tom Graves, and John Davis. Coaches Jeter and Brooks take charge of sprinters, weight men and field events and both have equally strong fields. Holding down the sprints will be three veterans, Tom Faris, Ben Bohannon, and Jim Ott, all state competitors. In the middle distances will be Bob Graves, Steve Connell, and Mike Timpane. Field events will be improved too, with the additions of Scot Harlan and Dennis Smith to Bill Scott in the shot put, Jack Shafran and Mike Brown in the Triple Jump and Long Jump and Hal Taylor in the high jump. With all but three of his men veterans of competition, Coach Gebhardt calmly predicts a winning season and is looking forward to the State Meet as a chance to exhibit his team's talents.

Girls' Track Has Winning Season

After a strenuous workout the girls pause to rest.

Peggy Brown churns out another practice lap in preparation for a fruitful track season.

Running her way to health and happiness, Karen McKowen has an enjoyable workout.

With the introduction of more Girls' Varsity Sports into the athletic program, the spotlight at Yorktown is beginning to shift. Female athletes are discovering new outlets for their talents as well as rediscovering the already established teams. One of these is Girls' Varsity Track. Track grew in popularity a few years back with a sign of recognition from the Athletic Department which purchased them team uniforms. That same year Girls' Track became a varsity sport. This year a new opportunity for team members has arisen with an open invitation to the Harringer Relays. This was previously an all-male relay competition, but this year two relay teams will be sent from Yorktown's Girls' Team. Mr. Charles Phillips, the coach for Girls' Track, sees some excellent potential in team members this year and hopes that a growing interest and enthusiasm will carry the team through to the State Finals. Coach Phillips trains the girls through a rugged program of long distances, sprint techniques and other general practice methods emphasizing the importance of endurance training. Everyday from 3 to 5 team members run approximately four to five miles towards this goal. Mr. Phillips also encourages weekend running, leaving the amount and type up to the individual. He feels that this is necessary to keep in all around good shape for weekly practices and, more importantly, for inter-varsity, District, and Regional competitions.

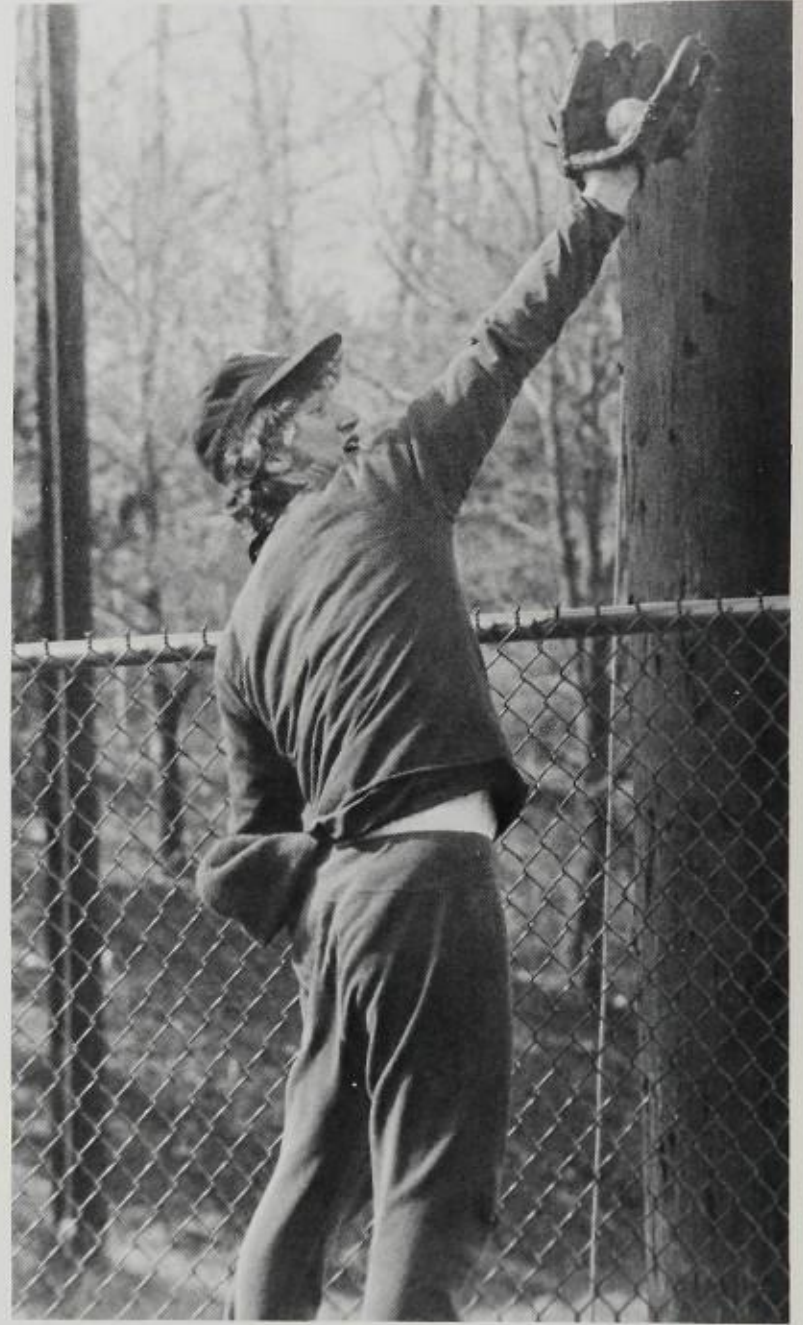

Having a head-on confrontation with Coach Phillips, the Girls' Track Team practices the starting position.

Returning Veterans Boost Baseball

Although the baseball season will take place after press time, it is safely said that the team will have a winning season and possibly a district title. Like the basketball team, the baseball team went through a "rebuilding season" last year in which many underclassmen started and thereby gained experience for this season. A total of six starters returned from that team to strengthen the lineup. They were: Mike Luks at catcher, Dave Campbell and John Lentz who alternated starting at first base last year and will again compete for the position, Joe Golden at second base, Tom Gately at third and pitcher, Rusty Shaw in left field and Doug Benson — a sophomore who started last year as a freshman — in center.

The team was led by Donald Druckenmiller the former J.V. coach who took over the varsity from Tim Hill, who left for Florida last year. Druckenmiller is not a new face to the varsity ranks, having been the teams coach until 1969. He was optimistic about the upcoming season and predicted a possible district title.

The team success this year will likely turn on the pitching of Senior Tom Gately and Sophomore Bill Musser and the hitting of last years big bats, Golden, Shaw, Gately, and Luks. In addition, there are many possible starters who must provide the necessary depth a championship team requires. These include John Ambrogi, Bill Cocker, Mark Fowler, and Dave Wilson. Yorktown Baseball unquestionably has the talent to make regionals, requiring a first or second place finish in the district. How far they go, however will depend on whether the team "puts it together."

Rusty Shaw snags a long fly ball, saving a probable homerun.

Coach Druckenmiller surveys the grounds to make sure they are in shape for an upcoming practice.

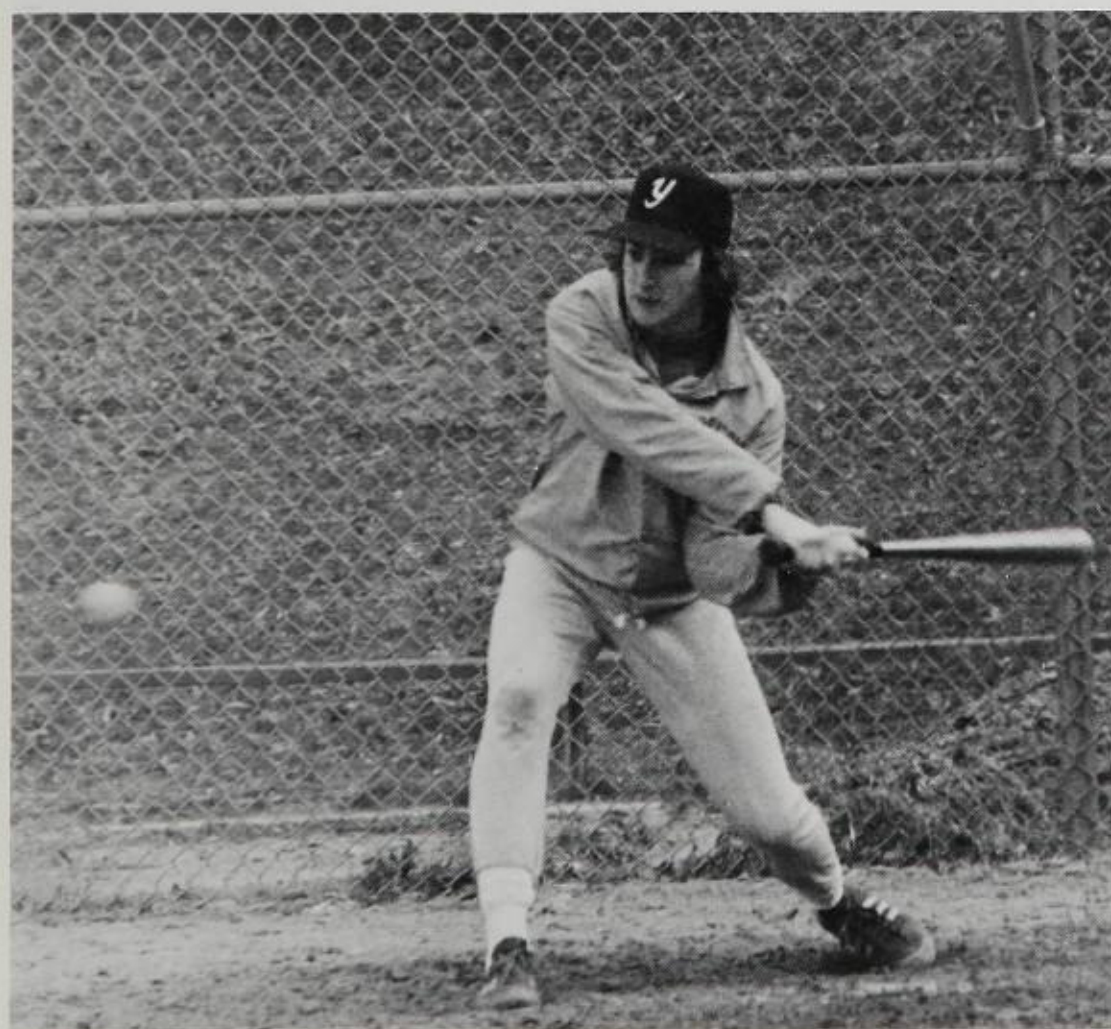

Taking a break from a strenuous workout, resident baseball stars Shaw, Golden, and Gately practice posing for bubblegum cards.

Tom Gately watches the ball casually drift into his glove as he retires another batter.

Senior Tom Gately makes a driving stop, keeping a hot grounder from becoming extra base hit.

Vieing for the starting position at first base, Southpaw John Lentz hopes to prove his batting skill by slamming one into right field.

Stepping out from behind the plate, Catcher Mike Luks tries his luck at batting.

Not about to be caught sleeping on the job during practice, Bill Cocker catches some shut eye at batting practice.

Fielding the ball during batting practice, Joe Golden liesurely flips it to first base.

Dave Campbell displays his body-contortioning talents while whalloping the pitch.

Ronnie Redfield hopes to strongarm the competition by throwing an overpowering ball.

Varsity Tennis Rallies To Good Season

State Champions from a year ago, Yorktowns' Varsity Tennis team felt it was ready to successfully defend its title. The Regionals should present no problem since Yorktown has gone undefeated in the northern Region for six years, compiling a seventy game winning streak. (The team rarely goes undefeated since it competes with college teams and nationally famous out of state private schools like Kingswood, Woodbury Forest, and last years' National Champion, Landon.)

The team was led by Coach Bill White, a Yorktown alumnus who coached the J.V. to an undefeated season two years ago. Team Captains were Don Huddleston and Bob Wilson, along with Bill Ball they have played varsity tennis since their sophomore year. Other experienced starters from last year were Kevin Manning and Steve Hufford. Filling out the line-up were former J.V. starters Hyong-bum Kim, Harry Shulman, Don Slenker, Steve Streightiff, Phil Symes, Shmoe Wysor, and Steve Millard. With this impressive range of Senior and underclass talent, the tennis team had another spectacular season and formed a nucleus for future teams.

Unsuccessfully trying to commit hari-kari with his tennis racket, Hyong-bum Kim sends back a volley.

Finding time to practice ballet during tennis practice, Steve ("Dutch") Hufford slams a forehand.

Kevin Manning gets his spring tennis game off the ground with this leaping backhand.

JV Tennis Team Nets Many Victories

The JV Tennis team also had a very successful season with coaching provided by Bill White and assistant Bob Wilson.

Hamill Predicts Good Season For Softball

Girls' Softball debuted this year as another addition to the list of girls' varsity sports. Girls may now also participate in Rifling and Cross-Country on the same level as male athletes.

John Hamill, physical education teacher for nearby Jamestown Elementary School, was in charge of putting the team together. As this was written the squad was small and was experiencing organizational problems. Nonetheless, Coach Hamill had the standard pre-season optimism about his teams' chances.

The type of softball to be played is fast pitch with ten players to a side. The tenth player is an additional out fielder called a "shortfielder." This year the team played a ten game schedule with each opponent in the region met once. Home games were played at the Jamestown field.

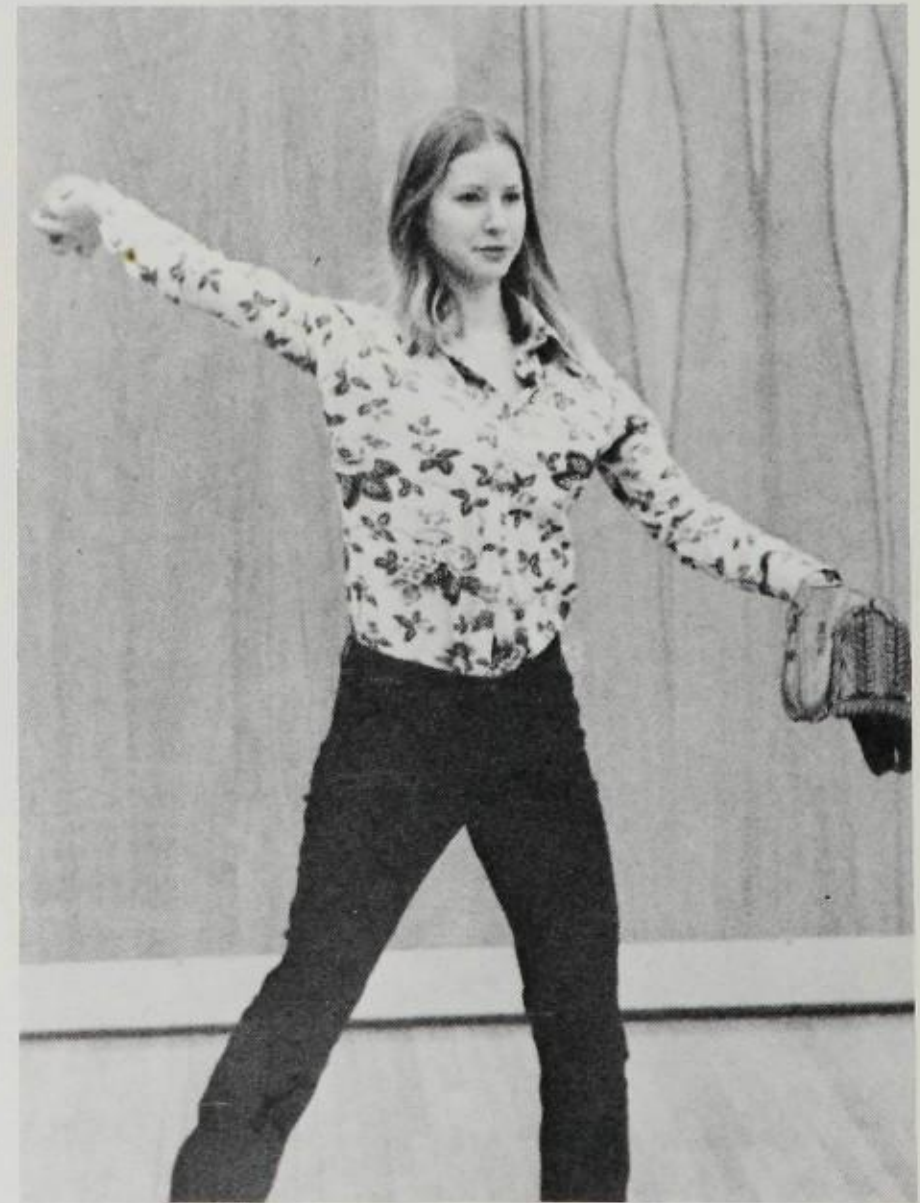

While the upstart Girls' Basketball Team took second in the district, it seems unlikely that the softball squad will fare so well. They must face such longstanding powers as Marshall, Madison, and Jefferson as well as other teams with more experienced players and coaches. One can expect that Varsity Softball will grow in strength and popularity since as the old saying goes, diamonds are a girls best friend.

Sara Herberg lets go of one of her blistering fastballs at an early practice.

Hoping to increase her batting average the easy way, Joanna Schneider weilds two bats.

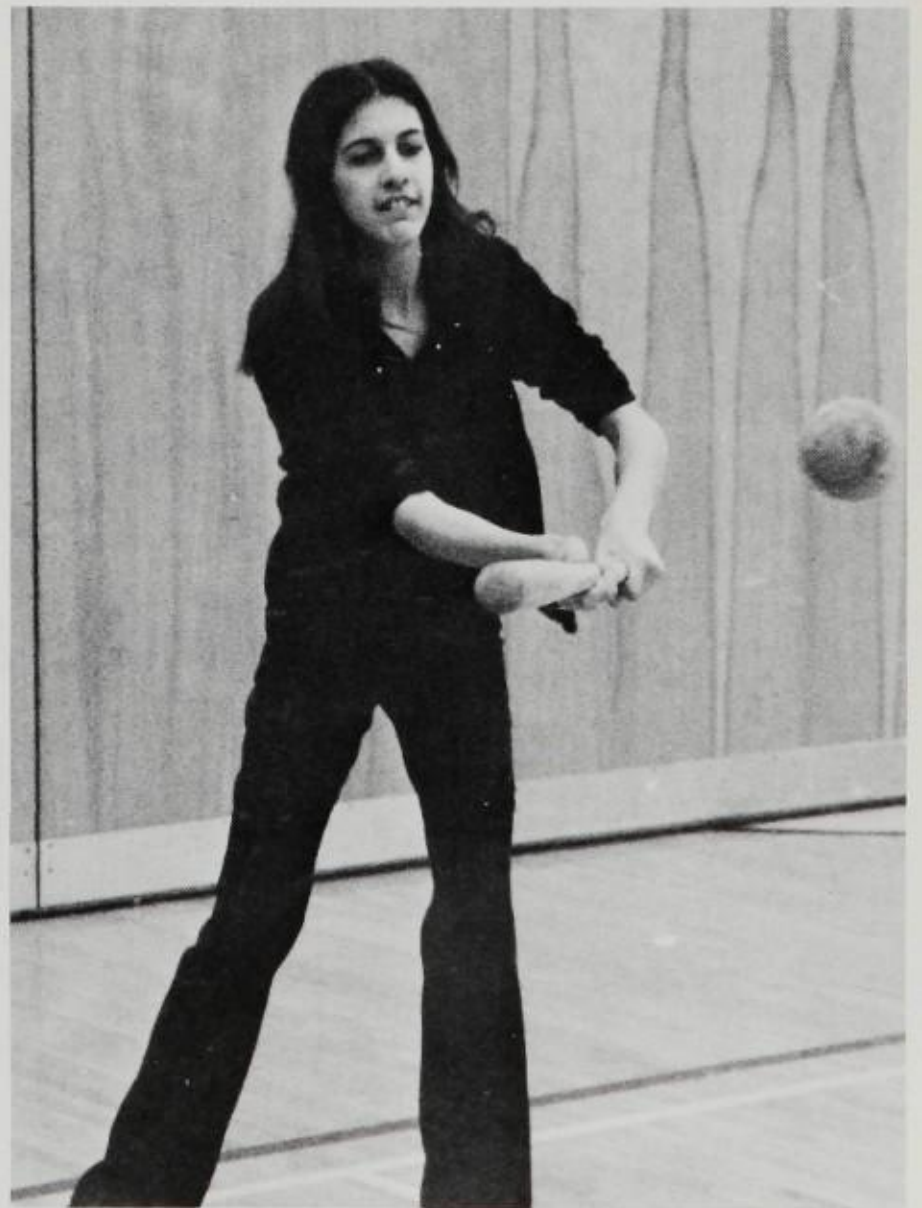

Susie Sale whips the ball to first base after scooping up another hot grounder.

Amazed that Sara Kreeger can catch with her eyes closed, Lisa Powell turns away agape.

Donna Gasbury puts the tag on Sara Herberg, who is now "it".

New to the Potomac Docks, these Girls' Varsity Crew members get a good start in their shells.

The prerequisites for being a member of the Crew team are a lot of enthusiasm and a talent for being able to endure many hours of strenuous work. In spite of these demanding requirements the sport is growing fast in popularity in that sixty people came out this year. A separate Girls' Crew has been added to Yorktowns' list of varsity teams. All three teams, Boys' Varsity, Girls' Varsity, and J.V., raced in local areas and in Delaware and Pennsylvania. The Nationals were held in New Jersey. With their fleet of three 8-man shells and two 4-man shells, the teams raced against W-L, Fort Hunt, Jeb Stuart and T.C. Williams high schools. Coaches Erin Meritus and William Stewart kept the members in shape with plenty of exercise and drills, one of which involved doing step-up runs up and down the "Exorcist" stairway near the boathouse in Georgetown. With all of this work and training, Yorktowns' crew teams came through with a successful season, living up once more to that huge Yorktown sign painted along the Potomac wall.

Cheerleaders Rouse School Spirit

Gail Jackson, Karen Hillegas, Beth Clark, Katie Couric, Linda Farrell, Diane Lacklen, Susan Cooke, Laura Dean, Meg Mosiman, Barbara Jaskiewicz.

Beth Clark looks around in surprise as she realizes that her squad has deserted her.

This year's squad sponsored by Ms. Booth and led by co-captains Beth Clark and Susan Cooke proved to be quite spirited. For Spirit Week, which is an annual event preceding the W-L football game, the cheerleaders sold Hershey kisses and buttons, had a pep rally, and sponsored Senior Colors and Crazy Socks day. They showed as much enthusiasm for the basketball team by decorating the boys' locker room before the Madison game. The cheerleaders also worked outside of school by cheering at a Redskins' banquet. They were chosen for this honor because of their excellent cheering, which was reported by the Globe on a few occasions.

Jolly Jumper Linda Farrell promotes spirit at athletic events.

Gail Jackson's jump is worth at least two points to Yorktown Patriots.

Captain Terri Foley and Co-captain Beth Omohundro, led their band of sophomores in cheering at Junior Varsity sports. This active group showed their spirit by decorating the houses of the football players before the exciting W-L game. This game was more than the cheerleaders expected; one unfortunate cheerleader was punched accidentally (so they say) in the face by a girl from the opposing squad. The football players, in turn, expressed their devotion by toilet papering each squad member's house.

Mr. W. [unclear]
It was nice having you as a teacher. I still think my set deserves an A. Well anyway - Have a nice summer - I'll see you next year in Adv. Bk. [unclear].
Mary Mahon

P.S. - No comment about
3rd Period - THE ZOO!

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I —
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

I really enjoyed your notehand. The typing class was another class that was very interesting.
 I liked typing but notehand was much more interesting.
 Thanks for all the fun times in class and all the great
 NOTEO prizes.

Mr. Westbrook
learned a lot this year, to had I didn't last year. I see you have a great time the rest of the year and are doing much better.
